ZONBA, Nyasaland (AP) — David Livingstone, the 19th-century explorer, was nothing but a tourist, a Nyasaland government official said Thursday.

Government minister Harry Chipembere told Parliament: "I do not recognize him (Livingstone) as an explorer. He was no more explorer than I was when I went to Britain."

"The state of Malawi, the native name for Nyasaland, was known long before these European African tourists came."

Peterson's Surprise

'GO' FOR COLLEGES

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

B.C. will proceed immediately to implement the Macdonald report on higher education and is prepared to dip into consolidated revenue this year to do it.

The surprise announcement came from Education Minister Leslie Peterson in the legislature Thursday. His statement came as the House started debate on his estimates.

It clearly took the opposition by surprise. First opposition speaker Mrs. Lou Haggen (NDP, Grand Forks-Greenwood) said it cut her speech in half.

UNIVERSITIES

Mr. Peterson announced impending legislation embracing the function of three de-recognizing universities, UBC, the University of Victoria, and the proposed Simon Fraser University to serve the lower Fraser Valley — plus amendments to the Public Schools Act to create three regional junior colleges.

In addition he said the government will proceed to set up two advisory committees recommended by Dr. Macdonald — one to operate in the academic field and the other to determine how government grants are to be divided among the three universities.

To Strachan

Smith Lends 'Ear'

Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith, a Sared, did his best Thursday to make sure Opposition Leader Robert Strachan won't miss any possible advantage in current legislative hearings.

After asking the legislature for special leave, he sent across the floor of the House a daffodil-decorated package.

It contained a sinuous rubber, and composition ear-trumpet, obviously old-fashioned. He said the presentation was being made on behalf of the "Committee for Better Political Hearing."

As committee investigations into accusations involving the highway department opened Wednesday, Mr. Smith failed to receive a second for his motion to have live television and radio coverage of the proceedings.

Mr. Strachan said later he hadn't heard the motion.

Upon receiving the gift, the New Democratic Party leader said that perhaps he had heard "this is as mutilated as my friend's political ideas," he told the legislature, waving the aged hearing instrument.

Syrian Army Revolts

LONDON (AP) — A Damascus radio broadcast said today the army has risen in revolution in Syria.

The broadcast said the country's borders have been closed, its airports shut down and a curfew clamped down over the entire nation.

Monitors said the broadcast criticized Syria's secession from the Egyptian-led United Arab Republic.

The announcer said the new regime "extends a hand to Cairo, Baghdad and San'a (the Yemeni capital)."

The broadcast added that the revolutionary command also would honor existing Syrian international agreements and support the United Nations charter.

That broadcast was monitored in London early this morning.

"The aim of the revolution is to bring the army back to the Arab line," an announcer said.

Postal, Too

Service Raise John D's Pledge

GUELPH (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday night that a civil service commission report on salary increases for the armed forces and postal workers will be implemented if his government is re-elected April 8.

The prime minister said the commission's report is due at the end of this month, but he said "we can't bring in the increases now" because spending authority would be needed from Parliament.

He added: "If it were not for our defeat, it (the report) would already have been received and implemented."

Five-Year Plan To Aid Economy

GUELPH (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker promised Thursday night new incentives for sales, added incentives for production and incentives for expanded trade as part of a new "five-year plan" to boost the economy and provide 1,000,000 new jobs.

"The economy is on the uprise — the upsurge is continuing," he told a crowd of 1,200 in this city of 40,000.

EXPORT SURPLUS

Mr. Diefenbaker said there has been a Canadian export surplus in 1962 "and we'll increase that amount this year."

If re-elected, he said, his government would introduce in Parliament "further legislation of benefit to small business across Canada." He also pledged the creation of an advisory council on small business.

TO BE IMPROVED

Referring to government guaranteed loans for small businesses, he said the legislation will be improved where it is demonstrated to be "insufficient on the basis of experience."

The next session of Parliament will be convened as soon as possible after the election.

JOIN CRUSADE

He appealed to his audience to "join in a crusade for a greater Canada no matter what your politics." He said a vote for either the New Democrats or the Social Credit party would be a vote for the Liberals.

Hammering at his made-in-Canada policy, he noted that it had already been started by his government, although this

Brier Curlers Sweep Politics from Rinks

(From UPI)

BRANDON — Lester Pearson may be leader of the Liberal party but to curlers he rates as no more than just another spectator.

Reaction to a story in a Winnipeg newspaper that Mr. Pearson would make a quick appearance at the Wheat City Arena Thursday afternoon and throw the first rock before the start of the eighth draw in the Canadian men's curling championship was quick and to the point.

"Who asked him?" said one blunt official. Fred Piche, chairman of the Brandon Brier committee, summed it up:

"We are running a sporting event, not a political rally."

Mr. Pearson, an avid sports fan, showed up for the afternoon draw and spent about 45 minutes seated in a guest box high over an entrance on one side of the ice.

He told newsmen he knew nothing about the "schlemozle."

"Someone may have tried to arrange something, but I don't know anything about it," he said. "I just came here to watch the curling."

Liberal aides travelling with the Pearson tour obviously were embarrassed by the incident. The only explanation they had was that "someone in Ottawa made a mistake."

More Ottawa Grants Liberal School Plan

BRANDON (CP) — Liberal from going to university by lack of financial resources.

Latest statistics showed 46 per cent of Canada's working force has no more than a primary school education, and half did not go farther because of finances.

MUST DO MORE

"What a waste of our most important resource — our human resource," he said. "We have to do more than we are doing in Ottawa, to make it possible for the provinces to see that every boy and girl gets a university education, and is not precluded from doing so by lack of financial resources."

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal program calls for 10,000 national scholarships a year, valued at $1,000 each, plus bursaries and loans to students repayable after graduation.

Mom's Not Ready To Back Tommy

SASKATOON (CP) — Mrs. Ann Douglas, president of the Saskatoon Old Age Pensioners' Association, apparently isn't prepared to readily accept the program of the New Democratic Party which her son, T. C. Douglas leads.

At least not until she's heard what the other parties have to offer.

Wednesday night she suggested, at a meeting of the association, that local representatives of all four political parties be invited to speak to the pensioners.

"These politicians will promise you a lot of things," she said, "but remember to vote for the one who promises you the most."

The suggestion was referred to the executive for consideration.

COMMITTEE

"We struck a working committee to actually get down to the hard task of drafting the necessary legislation," he said.

The committee had been instructed to work towards getting as many of the recommendations as possible ready for implementation this session.

But the feeling was the work would take much longer. "I'm happy to announce today that the work of the committee has been completed," he said.

When asked when construction would start he indicated from one to two years of study and planning would have to take place.

Your Good Health

The Stork Does Bog Down After the First 50 Years

By JOSEPH MOLENER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the possibility of pregnancy in later years?

What is the average age for a woman to start and finish menopause? Do women in their 30s ever go through the change of life?

How long after she appears to have ceased periods is she still in danger of becoming pregnant?

How much possibility does a woman 60 have of becoming pregnant? Is there any age when she is absolutely safe from becoming so? There are so many old wives' tales.—M. E. N.

Guess I'll have to break my good resolution. I'd resolved not to pay any attention to letters about "how old must a woman be, before she is absolutely sure of not becoming pregnant?"

I've answered it many times who, not reaching menopause at a good but later than the same question comes right average, have had babies at the age of 52, but it has been impossible to get proof of pregnancy later than 52.

Possibility of pregnancy past 60? As far as much chance as there is of me winning the high jump in the next Olympics.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it OK to soak a wool blanket in ice water and place on a person's bare chest to reduce fever?—W.D.

Is it a rather drastic method, a shock to the patient, and messy besides. Sponging with tepid water; cold cloths on the forehead; and immersing the whole in cool water are simpler and easier methods.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is uremic poisoning?—Mrs. S. J.

It results from faulty functioning of the kidneys. Urea and certain nitrogen compounds are wastes which the kidneys filter out and normally discharge in urine. When something prevents removal of these toxic materials, uremic poisoning results.

NO PROOF

There are cases of women who, not reaching menopause at a good but later than the same question comes right average, have had babies at the age of 52, but it has been

Author Says:

Learn or Perish

If we don't recognize the 20th century in education we will never get into the 21st, Martin Mayer, noted author on contemporary education, told a public meeting at Central Junior High School Thursday night.

"Considerable effort must now be made to prepare our children to handle a world which is more complicated than the world we don't know how to handle today," he said. "Two hundred years from now people will look on the advances in knowledge made in the 25 years prior to the First World War as we now look on the Periclean period of the fourth century B.C."

"There are many ideas in education," said Mr. Mayer, "but the problem is often in trying to get people to use them."

"There are many new methods," he said. "One of these is the use of various gadgets to put across knowledge. But too much money is going into the gadgets and not enough into the programs they are meant to serve."

NEED PROGRAM

"None of these gadgets is worth a cent without an educational program to go along with it," he said. "In mathematics, many topics have not been put across to children so that they can understand them either mathematically or pedagogically."

Mr. Mayer said in many fields there have been startling advances in educational methods.

NEEDN'T KNOW

"It has now come to the point," he said, "where an elementary school teacher can, with the use of new textbooks, films and tape recordings, teach a foreign language without herself knowing it."

"In the field of science, the United States is spending $25,000,000 a year to train more and better teachers to teach better physics."

Suspense Play Good But Needs Speedup

By BERT BINNY

St. Luke's Players Thursday night opened the 70th production in the course of their 13-year history, a suspense drama by Edward Perry, The Shop at Sly Corner.

This is a play with lots of meat. It shows that it isn't always the good guys who outmanoeuvre the bad guys but that destiny itself sometimes handles sticky situations admirably and unobtrusively.

H. E. Luker played Decius Heuss with confident vigor despite two cracked ribs received in rehearsal, but failed to clearly define Decius as a character with two distinct sides.

IMPRESSIVE ACTRESS

Margery Badgeman who played the minor part of Joan Deal is impressive. She has power as an actress with a delightfully clear voice, excellent posture and incisive movement.

Len Evans let us all know what sort of a sturdy, little character Archie Fellows is but, to be completely successful, he should make everyone loathe him. He tended to appear as a confounded nuisance.

Belle Davies as Margaret is sweet and appealing and her boyfriend Robert, played by Bill James, successfully portrays the down-to-earth citizen who is more sensible and resourceful than he appears.

Evanne Murray as Mathilde

Heuss was consistently excellent.

Betty Jeanpierre provided the comic relief in full measure. David Shearer, as John Elliott of Scotland Yard, invited confidence but he might have contributed more tension in the third act by being rather less pat in his speeches.

The set was excellent. Director Roland Goodchild has provided good movement, business and positioning but the pace of the play is much too slow.

The Shop at Sly Corner goes on again this evening and Saturday at 8:15 at St. Luke's Parish Hall.

KENNELON, N.J.—A father and four of his children were burned to death when a fire swept their large colonial-style home. Michael Moran, 47, died in an upstairs bedroom with Michael Jr., 17, Patrick, 13, Betty Jean, 11, and Joseph, 6.

Raging floodwaters, released by burst dam, raced through Norwich, Conn., toasting about cars and debris, and on into twine factory in background above. Resulting boiler explosion wrecked structure, killed three workers.—(AP Photofax)

Dam Cracked Warning Wasn't Given

NORWICH, Conn. (UPI)—Residents complained yesterday they were not warned in time that cracks had appeared in a dam that later burst, sending a 12-foot wall of water and one-ton chunks of ice hurtling through this town like a battering ram.

The mighty flood—officially labeled a disaster—killed six persons, injured many others and caused millions of dollars damage as it uprooted trees, smashed buildings and swept away automobiles in a three-block swath.

COMMENT DUCKED

The public works department declined immediate comment on the "no warning" complaints, but acting city manager Orrin Carashick said he did not believe the department would fail to warn residents.

He said, however, that a "crack" had appeared in the dam several hours before it burst.

The wall of water slammed into the Turner-Stanton twine mill about 10 p.m., causing a boiler to explode and one wing to collapse on night workers. Five of the six persons killed were mill workers.

"If I had been notified of the weakened condition of the dam, several lives and hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of goods would have been saved," Edward L. Hall, mill president, said bitterly.

"If we had known, there never would have been a night shift."

'Thousands' See Fidel As Teacher

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Rusk said Thursday "several hundred thousand" Cubans have indicated their desire to flee Cuba.

But of more immediate concern to the United States are the thousands of Latin Americans who want to get into Cuba so they can learn the ways of subversion and guerrilla warfare and take their lessons back home.

President Kennedy is expected to stress this problem at his March 18-20 meeting with the presidents of Central American Republics in Costa Rica.

Rusk said of the current situation in Cuba under the rule of Fidel Castro: "The economic situation is grim. There is evidence of great and growing discontent on that island."

EDMONTON—A charge of theft under $50 against William McLenaghan, suspended Edmonton public school board supervisor of carpenters, was dismissed in police court. Mr. McLenaghan was suspended following an investigation after Mrs. Edith Rogers, a school board trustee laid a public charge of corruption against the maintenance department.

Socreds Tory Quebec Target

QUEBEC (CP)—Progressive Conservative spokesmen say the party is going to make a determined bid for a comeback in Quebec in the April 8 federal election, aiming its main fire at Social Credit.

The Liberals are a second-ary enemy, say Senator Jacques Flynn, chief PC organizer in Quebec, and Egan Chambers, national president.

Mr. Chambers said the Conservatives are "certainly" going to contest all 75 Quebec seats. He scoffed at reports the party would pass up some ridings, particularly where Social Credit is strong.

Senator Flynn said it will be a week before the Tory campaign gets into high gear. "I like the way the Liberals and the Social Credit are battling each other right now," he said. "We might just pick up the ball on the rebound."

Students Drink Pub Dry

LONDON (AP)—A thousand students drank a pub dry of beer Wednesday and police had to be called to close the bar.

The students took five hours to gulp down 2,742 pints of draught beer and hundreds of bottles.

The drinking bout took place at the Six Bells pub in Chelsea. A shout of triumph rose as the last pint of beer was consumed.

After the landlord cried, "Time, gentlemen, please," it took police 20 minutes to clear the premises.

'Defamation Hired Job'

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI)—Former Conservative cabinet member Senator David J. Walker has accused the Liberal party of hiring an American journalist to write what he termed the defamatory article which appeared in Newsweek magazine recently.

A Liberal party spokesman, who declined to be quoted by name, flatly rejected the charge, firing back: "That is just about what we have come to expect from Mr. Walker. His imagination is matched only by his bad taste and bad manners."

Walker made the charge Wednesday night at a non-instant meeting in the Essex West riding. He attacked what he called Liberal attempts to destroy the integrity of the Conservative party by slandering the prime minister.

The Liberal spokesman rejected the charges when questioned about Walker's statement by the UPI in Ottawa.

Homes, Grain, Rails —Party Chiefs Speak

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A Social Credit government would allow home owners to depreciate the value of their houses the same way businessmen depreciate the value of their businesses for tax purposes, Social Credit leader Robert Thompson said Thursday night.

Mr. Thompson told an estimated 750 persons in this Niagara Peninsula industrial city of 85,000 that a man who buys a $15,000 home now pays for it 2½ times over and it is worn out.

GUERLPH (UPI)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday the Liberal Party's pledge of a $2 per bushel floor price for wheat would give "a lot of money to the large western farmer and little or none to the small farmer."

"It's just a coincidence Mr. Argue (Liberal agricultural critic Hazen Argue) is a big farmer," the prime minister told a news conference.

He explained that at $2 per bushel the farmer with the most wheat would receive the most money.

BIGGAR, Sask. (CP)—Railway policy in Canada must be made subservient to national policy, T. C. Douglas, national New Democratic Party leader, said Thursday night.

Abandonment of railway branch lines on the Prairies must take into account the social and economic needs of the Canadian people and not be granted solely on the basis of railway bookkeeping.

TORRE ANNUNZIATA, Italy—Girldancers Santo Carbone, 19, and Gabrielle Malelli, 33, paid a compliment to attractive Antonietta Vezza, 18, as she strolled by but didn't notice her brother and father following. Police are seeking Alberto Vezza and his son, Alberto Jr., for hitting Carbone on the head and shooting Malelli in the thigh.

Whom to Believe

THE QUESTION of whether or not Canada should acquire nuclear arms seems to have developed into a sort of international game of "Truth or Consequences."

For instance, on a recent short visit to Canada—where he stayed only long enough to precipitate a general election—former NATO commander General Lauris Norstad said that Canada would seriously weaken the Western Alliance if she did not meet her commitments to equip her armed forces with nuclear warheads.

In reply, Prime Minister Diefenbaker stated that Canada had accepted no commitment to arm her forces with nuclear warheads. Whom do we believe? The American general or the Canadian prime minister?

General Norstad also maintained that a NATO nuclear force was the only effective defence for Western Europe. President Kennedy, on the other hand, said this week that American nuclear strength was "sufficient" to defend Europe, without any additional assistance from other NATO nations. Whom do we believe? The American general or the American president?

The American commander-in-chief of NORAD, General K. Gerhart, declared Tuesday of this week that North American defence would be more effective if Canada would arm with nuclear weapons. The following day President Kennedy said that the United States was strong enough to do the job on its own. Whom do we believe? The American general or the American president?

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has stated that Canada and the United States are negotiating on the possibility of providing Canadian defence forces with nuclear weapons. While the U.S. State Department agrees that this is so, an "informed" United States source denies that such talks are taking place. Whom do we believe? The Canadian prime minister? The U.S. State Department? Or the "informed" United States source?

An unnamed U.S. defence department spokesman has now claimed that Prime Minister Diefenbaker revealed secret information regarding the United States air strength during one of his campaign speeches. The prime minister has denied the charge, pointing out that certain Canadian and American magazines have already published similar information. Whom do we believe? The prime minister? Or the unknown spokesman of the U.S. Defence Department?

Thus does the problem of nuclear arms for Canada continue tying itself in knots. If the question itself is so confused and unclear, how can any answer be found?

We in this country would be greatly helped if President Kennedy, his generals, and his unnamed spokesmen in the U.S. departments of state and defence could agree among themselves on their own country's policy of international nuclear defence.

Meanwhile, whom and what should we believe?

Experts Everywhere

IT IS NICE to know that so many ex-servicemen offer themselves for public office, for this shows their continuing patriotic intent.

The surprise might be if this were not so, for the ranks of war veterans are legion. The country is full of them. According to the 1961 census there are well over a million Canadian males with war service to their credit.

The roll of election candidates in the two federal ridings of this area stands up well in this respect, for in both constituencies there are several ex-servicemen making a bid to write MP after their names. A whole new generation has arisen since VE Day came in Europe nearly eighteen years ago, however, and it can be no denigration that a man today was a school-boy when the last war was fought.

Any idea that being a war veteran makes a person an expert in defence, also, is hardly a valid assumption for election purposes. Every veteran in his expansive moments likes to think he knows all about war and how to conduct it, and it is one of the pleasures of reunion gatherings that old warriors give vent to their opinions in no mean fashion.

That they are all experts, however, is a very debatable subject, unless one agrees that experts differ and this only adds to the confusion of any special virtue in this respect.

The validity of prior claim to electors' favor on the grounds of "expert" defence knowledge is thus somewhat suspect, and this without the slightest prejudice to the million Canadian males entitled to wear the badge of their war service.

Generals themselves, as we have seen, differ as to the degree of their "expertness," including several of the highest-ranking officers who have been at national defence headquarters. Veterans being as they are indeed it would be astonishing if they did not.

As a criterion of expert knowledge of the grave problems of modern defence, therefore, one local candidate is as good as another.

Dubious Appeal

CIVIL SERVANTS across the country probably will have noted with some interest that Mr. Real Caouette, the Social Credit co-leader, thinks they should be free to support the political parties of their choice—that "the civil servant should have the right to his own political opinions" because "he is a human being first and a civil servant second."

Unless more is read into his words than he has been quoted in news accounts as saying, of course, he proposes no freedom that government employees do not already possess. They all have the right to their own political opinions, and to express them and support the parties of their choice with their ballots. The alternative is to conclude that Mr. Caouette and Social Credit favor civil servants being in no way constrained from working actively and openly for partisan causes.

Would they want such a dubious gift? Would they welcome thus inviting the kind of patronage that puts party endeavor beside or before ability, seniority or any other consideration? Or that works to the disadvantage of those who have chosen the wrong affiliation?

One can hardly think so. Nor, for that matter, imagine that a Social Credit national government if ever elected would happily countenance federal employees in large numbers busily and publicly seeking its election by the voters. Mr. Caouette underestimates the intelligence of the civil servants to whom he appeals in such vague but sympathetic terms.

"I hear it's going to be a tough campaign everywhere . . ."

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and scaling was . . .
By TOM TAYLOR

THERE was a picture in the local press this week which, had I been a Scot, would have fair affronted me. Not the picture itself, which I must say was impeccable of its kind.

It showed two distinguished members of our militia menage, a corporal and a brigadier, in serious discussion. The former a professional of his art and the latter a layman.

To wit, the corporal was a Canadian Scottish piper and he was discoursing about his instrument to the visiting area commander.

So far so good, and all right and proper. But the caption! It said, and I quote, that the corporal was giving a "short course in mechanism of the highland bagpipe" to the brigadier.

The Armoury will never be the same after this, not the pipe-major who directs the corporal and his fellow pipers, at least.

I know nothing about the intricacies of the bagpipes, except that it's a fallacy that the piper simply blows his cheeks out or his head off, but I have some friends who are masters of the instrument and I feel certain they would take umbrage to the suggestion that it's a mechanism.

For all the world as though it was created in a bolt factory, or the like.

The bagpipe, it has been impressed on me by those who know, is a culmination of the musical art. I don't go so far as to say "the" culmination, for there are other manifestations of music, of lesser virtue naturally, which allegedly entertain certain people. But the highland bagpipe in question, and as possibly the brigadier might have deduced after the corporal entranced him with its airs, is a cultural development which has added immensely to the amenities of society.

Now it has to be conceded that due appreciation of the bagpipe is not precisely universal. There are some unfortunate, so my pipe-major friends tell me, with appropriate and withering scorn, whose musical education has been sadly neglected and whose ears are not attuned to what they call the sweetest music this side of heaven. Good music has always had to run the gauntlet of alien tastes; they point out, some nasty things are said of Bach and Mozart, enough for instance to rouse Mr. Gruber in defence of his predilections.

I have never yet sought our symphony conductor's reaction to the playing of the pipes but I am confident his sensitive soul and native courtesy would not set me at naught.

One thing might be said without fear of contradiction, when a pipe band strikes up there is nothing abstract about it. The pibroch is not a painting which requires a label. Its impact is at once emphatic and persuasive, causing one either to stand enthralled or, allowing a foreign ear that could not be converted to the fine arts, to run for cover.

I am sure the brigadier himself would agree as to this.

The call of the pibroch is evocative for all true followers of its faith. It stirs the blood and summons the glory of the spirit. There are a thousand pibroch melodies that bespeak the grace, the gaiety, the romance and the martial qualities of all who pay them obedience.

So I have been informed and who am I, who couldn't lay a rightful finger on a chanter, to dissent therefrom.

A mechanism? No, by all means no. Instead, an instrument of charm and beauty, as undoubtedly the corporal made amply evident to the brigadier.

'Twould be a sad day for civilization were the great highland bagpipe to be alienated, would it not?

The Attack on Khrushchev

Breach Full of Peril

By ISAAC DEUTCHMAN
(Second of Two Articles)

ONE of the latest Chinese attacks on Khrushchev occurred at the Afro-Asian "Solidarity Conference" in Moshu, Tanganyika. Liu Ning-I, the leader of the Chinese delegation there, spoke allusively, for he addressed a mixed Communist and non-Communist audience, but the meaning of his words was unmistakable.

"We are against any great power using aid as a means of bartering away the rights of the recipient country in international bargaining," he said. "He aimed at Russia's conduct in the Congo as well as in Cuba."

He went on: "Any attempt by one or two governments to decide the world's major problems and to manipulate mankind's destinies runs counter to . . . the interests of the peoples. It will end in utter disaster and be condemned by history. We are opposed to the big powers bullying, oppressing, and giving orders to smaller countries."

Thus big China comes forward as the champion of the small nations against Khrushchev and Kennedy alike!

"For the sake of defending peace," Liu Ning-I concluded, "we are resolutely against all foreign military bases and against aggressive military blocs and treaties." Here the Maoist for all his bitter hostility towards Titoism, speaks altogether like the Yugoslav nationalist.

The crux of the controversy remains Mao's contention that Khrushchevism is obstructing the struggle of the colonial and ex-colonial peoples and of Communism in the capitalist world. This is the old charge, originating with Trotsky, that Soviet diplomacy has been subordinating and sacrificing the interests of world Communism to its own convenience.

The latest upheaval in Iraq has undoubtedly given a new edge to this controversy. The overthrow of Kassem has come as a confounding shock to both Mao and Khrushchev. Both hastened to recognize the new Iraqi regime even before it was established, while the blood of Iraqi Communists was still flowing in the suburbs of Baghdad.

Evidently neither of the big Communist chiefs realized how intensely and violently anti-Communist the new regime was. But it should be recalled that the Iraqi revolution of 1958 was one of the earliest controversial issues between Mao and Khrushchev. Khrushchev then induced the Iraqi Communists to recognize Kassem as the national hero and leader and to knuckle under to him, where as Mao held that Kassem was a "weak and unreliable ally" and that the Communists were strong enough to seize power for themselves.

In Moscow, Communist, the ideological oracle speaking for the Iraqi comrades for their initial reluctance to adopt a pro-Kassem policy, Mikoyan went to Baghdad to counteract the influence of Chinese ultra-radicalism; and in the end the Iraqi Communist party towed the Khrushchev line.

The latest coup thus gives the Chinese an opportunity to say "We told you so"; and they are sure to make the most of it. Khrushchev and his colleagues are greatly embarrassed; and on February 17 Pravda published a special declaration, signed by the central committee, which, while protesting against the anti-Communist terror in Baghdad, sought to lift from Khrushchev the odium of his association with Kassem.

For the first time Pravda described Kassem not as a brave champion for his country's independence and progress, but as "personal dictator" and "tyrant."

Poor Mr. Khrushchev; he has to cope with yet another "personality cult" which he so valiantly helped to foster.

"We do not want any more Khrushchevite experiments of this kind," is what the Chinese would say at any international Communist conference.

Thus Maoist intransigence is unabated. Yet one wonders whether the Chinese are not tempted by Moscow's hint about a possible resumption of Soviet aid. Can they afford ignoring the hint? Are perhaps the worst and least years over for China? And in the prospect of economically better times enhancing their self-confidence? Or are they so dedicated to their ideas that, whatever their plight, they prefer to do without Khrushchev's aid and without the strings attached to it?

Even apart from the question of aid, an irretrievable breach would be fraught with so many grave dangers to both Russia and China, that both must still prefer to keep their conflict simmering rather than to let it boil over.

The Fortress Rock

Firmly British

By a Special OFNS Correspondent from Gibraltar

THERE is no sign that the Spanish government intends to give official support to the latest call for a change in the status of Gibraltar, the British base which guards the western gate of the Mediterranean.

The suggestion has come from the Spanish newspaper Ya that Gibraltar should become a British-Spanish base—in fact Spanish territory leased to Britain—like the American base at Rota.

In older days any such business would have been a question purely between two principals, between the holder and the claimant. In modern times there is a healthier habit of taking into account what the man in the middle wants. What do the Gibraltarians want?

Gibraltar, two-and-a-half square miles of soaring limestone rock honeycombed into a natural fortress, was settled by the Moors in 711, and taken by the Spaniards from Granada in 1462. It remained Spanish until it was captured by Admiral Sir George Rooke on July 24, 1704. It was formally ceded to Britain by the Treaty of Utrecht, and the cession was confirmed by the Treaty of Paris in 1763, and Spain getting Minorca and the Floridas in exchange by the Treaty of Versailles in 1763.

It is now one of Britain's diminishing number of Crown colonies, ruled by a commander-in-chief as governor, with the help of a hand-picked executive council and a legislative council of 12, of whom seven are elected.

There are about 26,000 Gibraltarians, mostly of Italian, Portuguese and Spanish descent, and mostly Roman Catholics. They live under laws based on the English system and use British coins for money. But Spanish is the chief language. Many Gibraltarians have Spanish wives and Spanish relatives, and indeed look upon Spain as their second home.

More than half the insured labor force consists of alien workers, most of whom live in Spain but cross the border daily for Gibraltar's service departments, and for the colonial government and city council.

But Spain has done much to injure amicable relations with one of the friendliest people in the world, by her periodic pin-pricking claims to sovereignty, and also by a ban on sporting and cultural links. No Spanish

U.K. Defence Policy

Delirious Farce

By CAMANDRA from London

THERE'S a popular line in Annie Get Your Gun which reads: "My defences are down." We might adopt it for our National Anthem in the states—and get a battered, bamboozled Britannia to sing it.

Not since a famous British general's son was taken to see the Maginot Line in France, in early 1940, have we been in such a mood. That perceptive youth, when asked what he thought of the defences of the Allied armies, replied laconically: "I'm going to join the Navy."

We are going to spend £1,838,000,000 on defence for the period 1963-1964, which works out at the tidy sum of £36 for every man, woman and child in the land.

Mr. Peter Thorneycroft, in the latest White Paper, dismisses the Government's Defence Policy in seven lines (as well he might, for they have no Defence Policy), and does not even trouble to tell us what the total of military expenditure is.

But there are some highlights (low-comedy lights?) of what is going on that makes one imagine that we are being forced to witness a delirious zany farce.

The case of the cruiser HMS Blake is in the true tradition of insane slap-stick—except that the price of admission to see the fun is not only steep but vertical.

This ship took nineteen years to build, cost £19,000,000, is already out of date and is now being put into reserve because there are not enough men in the Royal Navy to man her.

The total distance that HMS Blake has sailed in her active life of nineteen months—one-twelfth of the time she took to construct—is 39,000 miles or 1487 per mile steamed so far.

What the use of a cruiser is in an all-out atomic war is not in doubt. It would be fused into molten metal that would sink in a cloud of boiling steam in a few seconds under the impact of a large megaton bomb.

Another gruesome joke, for those with a ghastly sense of humor, concerns the construction of so-called British Polaris submarines to maintain our so-called "independent deterrent."

It now turns out that at a fabulous cost we will make only the fore and aft parts of the vessel, with the vital centre section which contains the Polaris missiles, to be manufactured in the United States.

We will thus supply the spent and the back-stroke of the gun but not the breech, the firing mechanism, or the bullets. We supply the jelly that goes round the bullets.

If you hear a screaming and a blubbering it is the word "Independent" begging to be taken off the rack and be allowed to return to its original meaning.

From the follies of blue water to the idiocies of blue sky.

After hundreds of millions of pounds have been uselessly spent on trying to develop effective guided rockets and missiles to be carried by our RAF fleet of V-bombers, we finally put all our nuclear eggs in the basket reserved for the most promising of all the ovoid horrors—"Skybolt," which was being developed in Los Angeles.

Not, please note, in "independent" Britain.

The President of the United States then suddenly told us that the Skybolt egg was added. Our baffled government said that it was a pity but we would soon have a remarkable new aircraft, the TSR2, which will fly at twice the speed of sound, take off from small airfields and fly so close to the ground that it will avoid all enemy radar-network defences.

It also carries in its belly a remarkable nuclear sting.

What are the grisly facts now emerging about the TSR2?

Its range, if it escapes the most formidable new anti-aircraft missiles now in working order and possessed by the Soviet Union, will permit it to penetrate to Moscow and back—with luck.

"Look at that crummy wall—falling apart. They just don't make craftsmen like they used to!"

The Packack

Nostalgic Tinkle

By GREGORY CLARK

OUT for an afternoon stroll the other day in my residential neighborhood, I overtook one of those itinerant scissor grinders and knife sharpeners that you occasionally see walking slowly by, dragging the little trestle with the grindstone in it with one hand, and jangling a small bell in the other. I slowed my pace and followed him for three blocks. In that time, he never raised a customer.

His poor little bell was practically soundless. Amid the hum, swish, tool and subdued roar of the modern city, the bell was barely audible even on the street. And with radio or TV, not to mention vacuum cleaners, domestic mechanization in all the houses, the little tinkle of an old tradition had about as much chance as a phoebe bird in a foundry.

There is pathos in this fidelity of a few foreign-born scissor grinders to a tradition as old as cities. And there is nostalgia in it for those of us who can still vividly recall the days when, in the quiet city, the scissor grinder's bell could be heard a whole block away, clear above the random clatter of delivery horse's hooves, the occasional screen door slamming, away up the block, and robins gleefully singing over all.

The British Parliament passed the Stamp Act 198 years ago today. In 1765—under which Britain levied a duty on all official documents such as legacies, cheques and receipts in its American colonies.

The levy was designed to help pay for the upkeep of British soldiers in America. It was greatly resented by the colonists and was one in the chain of measures which led to the outbreak of the American War of Independence in 1775. 1835 The Niagara suspension bridge was opened.

Sino-Russian Quarrel Cold Comfort for West

By RUTHVEN E. HARRY

For many years one of the principal aims of the Communist bloc has been to disrupt the Western system of collective security which includes NATO, SEATO, and CENTO.

Similarly, the West has watched hopefully for signs of a crack in the Sino-Soviet monolith on the general theory that an out-and-out split between Peking and Moscow would be a good thing for the Free World.

But so far Moscow has shown little jubilation over, and less tendency to exploit, the severe stresses upon NATO by far the most important Western alliance caused by de Gaulle's rapprochement with West Germany and his break with Britain and the United States.

And if there is any great joy in Washington or other Western capitals over Peking's current egg with the Kremlin, it is well concealed.

The reason is obvious. Moscow sees greater danger in a resurgent West Germany allied with France and unrestrained by Britain and America than in the original NATO setup.

And the West currently regards the prospect of rampant Red Chinese imperialism, dedicated to the proposition that war with the West is inevitable, necessary, and even desirable, with considerable unease.

Each fears that what for years has been in essence a sparring match between Moscow and Washington could become a battle royal touched off through accident or design by some reckless, adventurist government which has acquired the ability to start a nuclear war but not to end it.

There isn't much doubt that the Kremlin genuinely fears the West German revanchists and views the prospect of acquisition of nuclear weapons by the West German army, Bundeswehr, with real alarm.

What the Russians foresee as a possible end product of the Franco-German pact is an independent, nuclear-armed "third force" in Europe dominated not by Paris but by Bonn, to which the rest of Europe, economically strongly linked through the Common Market, necessarily would adhere.

They'll Fight One Another Only AFTER Liquidating Us!

A-War Biscuit Proves—

Boon to Hungry

A concentrated American biscuit, developed for use as a survival ration in case of nuclear war and to utilize grain surpluses, is proving a boon to hungry people in underdeveloped areas, particularly in Latin America.

The biscuit contains hard red winter wheat, corn, flour, corn sugar, shortening, salt and water. Special packaging insures a minimum shelf life of one year and a maximum of three years.

The U.S. Defence Department has already purchased 66,000,000 pounds of the biscuits. But attention has been increasingly shifted to the use of them as a high protein, ready-to-eat food in needy areas.

A quantity of the crackers were shipped to Peru. Distributed to hungry schoolchildren in a suburb of Lima, the food was eaten with enthusiasm by pupils and teachers alike. Distribution in Guatemala, El Salvador, Panama and Colombia followed.

One community in Peru lived off the biscuits for six weeks (there was nothing else to eat) and did not get tired of them.

BACKGROUND

Expected to Explode Device Soon

Red China on Nuclear Brink

By EDWARD NEILAN
from Hong Kong

Red China is expected to be in a position to explode its first nuclear device late this year.

The detonation of a nuclear device would require about 10 kilograms of plutonium. A reactor with an output of 10,000 kw could produce two or three kilograms a year.

Communists claim it has four nuclear reactors. They are said to be at Peking, Chungking, and somewhere in Sinkiang, probably Tientsin, the capital. The one at Peking is capable of producing three kilograms of plutonium-239, cobalt-60 and sodium 24.

It is estimated that Red China had a stockpile of about 20 kilograms of plutonium 239 at the end of 1961. For at least three years Russia had supplied Peking with natural uranium, tritium and other nuclear elements.

It is figured that the four reactors will have given Communist China sufficient plutonium by late 1963 for atomic test explosions.

Whether or not the Chinese have any weapons delivery systems, as opposed to the capability to set off a nuclear explosion, is anybody's guess.

Despite this, the move to explosion of a nuclear test by the Chinese would have tremendous psychological impact even though the effect on the military balance of power would come later when delivery systems were perfected.

Some have guessed that Chinese nuclear development slowed down when Russian aid was cut back. There is counter evidence that Peking was working on its nuclear project before the 1955 Sino-Soviet agreement on the development of nuclear energy for "peaceful purposes."

Even before the Sino-Soviet ideological differences the Chinese knew they could not depend on Russia in developing a nuclear strike force.

Practical analysts of the Sino-Soviet dispute believe this is one of the main factors behind the split.

The Communist regime has many outstanding nuclear scientists. Among them are Dr. Chen Hsueh-seng and Dr. Chen Sanzhang, who earned their degrees in the United States and participated in the development of the first atomic bombs in the U.S.

Scientists U.S. Trained

Dr. H. S. Chen, a leading authority on rocketry and jet propulsion, worked at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, California Institute of Technology and in U.S. government projects.

He studied rocketry in Germany after the Second World War and later returned to the U.S.

He was reportedly deported in 1955 after he was discovered taking out atomic secrets for Communist China.

At 51 he now heads the Research Institute of Dynamics at Peking.

In addition to Chinese scientists, Peking has enlisted the services of experts from some 34 countries. One of these is Joan Chase, a Chinese-American who reportedly took part in work on the first atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

Communist China is as determined as France's de Gaulle to become a nuclear power.

It is just a matter of time.

Merchant Ships Could Carry ...

Polaris Under Wraps

A high-ranking U.S. Navy authority says it would be possible to camouflage a North Atlantic fleet of Polaris-carrying merchant ships to reduce the fleet's vulnerability to enemy attack.

This officer, who asked not to be named, said the Polaris missiles could be tucked away in the holds out of sight, the vessels could be painted different colors so that there would be no uniformity for identity.

Too Much Talking

Excessive talk about United States intelligence secrets was denounced yesterday by a congressman.

"Officials in Moscow, Peking and Havana must applaud our stupidity in announcing publicly facts which they would gladly spend huge sums of money endeavoring to obtain," said Representative George Mahon, chairman of the House military appropriations subcommittee.

"Every day some high-ranking intelligence officer is quoted in the newspapers on some subject or another," he said.

"These are men who should neither be seen or heard."

LETTER to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 300 words in length, and if signed, with a pre-name must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

The tragedy of civilization is qualification without nuclear warheads! They lead us astray, for man is fond of qualifications. He sees himself in various disguises. They make him good and evil, right and wrong, true and false, worthy and unworthy. Quite a mouthful. But why qualify himself? Why not see himself as man and be done with it?

He sees nuclear warheads as a menace in peace but a protection in war. Again, why qualify? Will an attacker wait for permission to invade air space? Give warning that the time has come for nuclear warfare? Surely the worth of nuclear warheads does not depend on whose shoe is being fitted?

The truth is that the menace and protection are embodied equally. We can not have the one without the other. That is, if we are to see the nuclear warhead as a whole. And with out qualification.

ALAN GREIG,
1111 Fort Street,

In sum, there is considerable evidence that the Russians would prefer a continuing line of the NATO-sponsored standoff in Europe to the alternative they suspect might develop.

and the Russians is even a possibility. Both are ruthless imperialists; neither can stomach the idea of domination by the other.

In short, there can be but one ruler of the world.

It would be nice if the West could tell them "Let's you and him fight," but the hard fact remains that before they fight each other, they remain agreed that the West must be liquidated first.

Sixty new full-time jobs and 60 part-time jobs will be created for forestry workers.

SEVEN PHASES

The seven phases of the plan are planting shortly after logging, rather than waiting for natural seeding, fill-in plantings, juvenile thinning, stand rehabilitation, silviculture, and planting of deciduous trees for pulp in selected sites, and commercial thinning.

Some 8,000 acres will be planted in 1963 and over the 10 years the intensive forestry practices will be applied to 180,000 acres.

This will increase the annual growth by 110,000,000 extra cubic feet.

Cabinet to Have Sweeping Powers Over Tradesmen

A bill giving the provincial government sweeping power to regulate tradesmen was introduced in the legislature yesterday.

Brought in as an amendment to the Apprenticeship and Tradesmen's Qualification Act, the bill gives the government authority to order proficiency certificates for all tradesmen and to forbid employment of those who don't hold such certificates.

The law, designated Bill 31, does not come into force without a cabinet order, and introduction of the new regulations is expected to be done gradually in pace with growth of vocational training and retraining facilities.

CABINET TO DECIDE. Power to designate regulated trades and areas in which compulsory certification shall apply rests with the cabinet.

A spokesman said the regulations are in line with those in several other provinces.

Members of designated trades would be required to take examinations set up by a special board composed of representatives from labor, management and government.

An official said the compulsory certification features of the amendment would probably come in trade fields for which voluntary certification provision already exists. These include radio, television, auto mechanics and refrigeration.

Examinations, when they are drawn up, would be designed to meet the standards of other provinces so the proficiency would not be limited only to B.C.

The bill also drops age restrictions for apprentices. Previously they have been a minimum of 15 years and a maximum of 21.

With these limits lifted an indi-

Check Slated On Charges At Hospitals

There are no extra charges if St. Joseph's Hospital is forced to place an emergency patient in a private room when ward accommodation is full, a spokesman said last night.

Sister Mary Ann Celeste, hospital administrator, said that if incoming emergency patients request a ward, and the hospital is not able to accommodate them in anything but a private room, "no differential charge is made."

But the patient, she said, is moved to a ward as soon as possible.

Patients have complained to the government that they had to pay private room rates under similar circumstances at the only other major hospital in the area, the Royal Jubilee.

They admitted that they had been transferred to wards as soon as possible, but had been charged for the time they were in private accommodation.

Health Minister Eric Martin said late Thursday the chief inspector of hospitals for the province, is looking into the situation at both hospitals.

Start Young

Current methods of teaching children foreign languages seem to be a dismal failure in many cases, Social Credit whip Bert Price (Vancouver-Burrard) said Thursday.

He suggested it was a serious waste of money and pupils' time to begin teaching languages when students reached high school.

Children of New Canadians seemed to learn English fluently in a year or two at the age of five or six, he said, and Canadian children could probably learn just as quickly if exposed to foreign languages at a similar age.

More Money and Planning Urged to Boost Economy

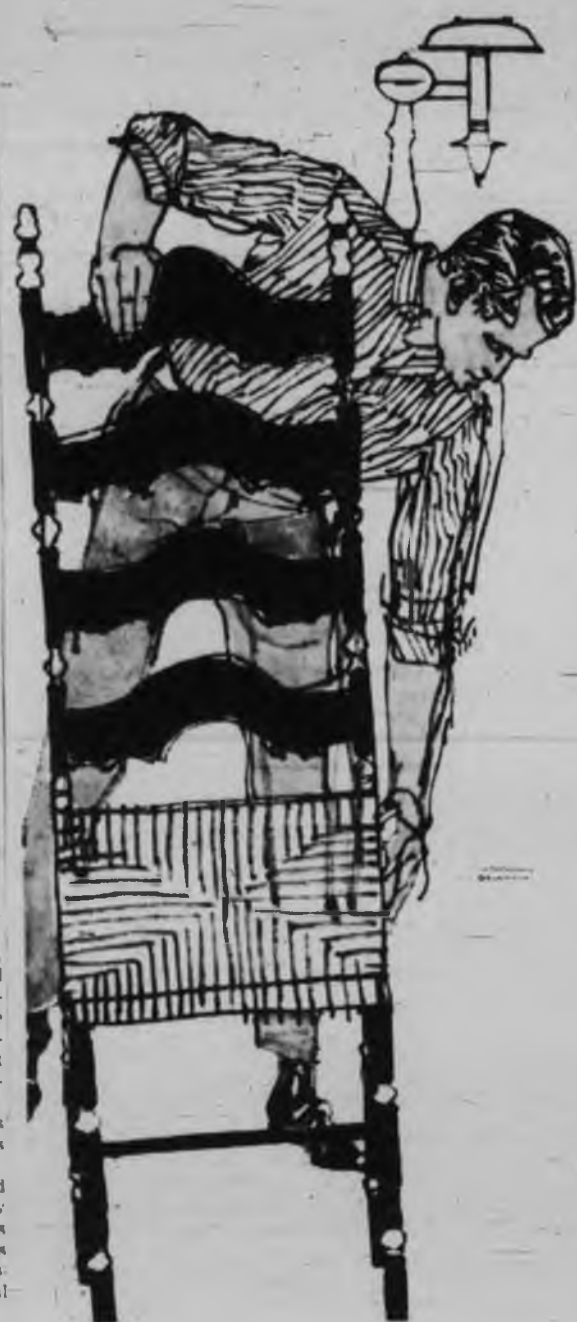

Trade and commerce need faster expansion of secondary industry, money and more planning. The comment came Thursday as the legislature approved department spending of $988.435.

He told Attorney-General Robert Bonner, also minister of industrial development, trade and commerce, that establishment of a productivity council in B.C. would aid faster expansion of secondary industry.

The comment came Thursday as the legislature approved department spending of $988.435.

Mr. Perrault said he was "bewildered" that the government spends less than $1,000,000 out of a $373,000,000 budget for active promotion of the economy of the province.

Firm Gets $1,799,730

The cabinet has approved payment of an extra $1,799,730 to Perini Pacific Ltd. for extra work on the Port Mann bridge over the Fraser.

The amount was set by a special tribunal headed by Mr. Justice James Goudy. Perini asked $5,000,000 in addition to the $7,500,000 paid on its bridge foundation contract.

B.C. expects 42.5 per cent of the extra payment will be reimbursed by Ottawa. The bridge is part of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Logging Operators Facing Blackmail?

Logging operators face a system of "blackmail" as a result of bidding practices on timber, the legislature's committee on forestry was told.

The "battle of the auction room" was described in a brief submitted by the Truck Loggers Association, representing many small operators.

The brief said when an established operator wants to cut a certain area of timber, he asks the government to put it up for auction.

Sealed tenders are submitted. If the operator who asks for the auction does not make the highest bid he has the right to match the highest bid and acquire the timber.

The brief said that generally previous to the advertised date of the auction the operator

NDP Seeks to Curb Party Election Funds

British Columbia elections are going to become penny pinching affairs if the NDP ever gains power.

The mysterious donors of campaign funds will lose their comfortable anonymity.

A bill placed before the legislature by Mrs. Margaret Hobbs (NDP-Revelstoke) would limit the expenditure by any party in any year to $50,000.

Candidates would be limited to a sum equal to 10 cents a head for each constituency elector.

According to returns filed in the legislature after the last provincial election in 1960, the NDP proposal would leave the Social Credit and the Tories hardest hit. Social Credit said it spent $280,000 for election expenses and the Conservatives $106,000.

Liberal returns showed $36,700 and CCF (NDP) $29,800.

But unless the NDP wins an election, the bill is not likely to become law.

If it gets before the House at this session it will be debated and if it doesn't get before the House it will die on the order paper.

35 Pupils Per Teacher B.C. Aim

British Columbia hopes to have one teacher for every 35 pupils, no further reduction was possible.

Leslie Peterson told the department found a short-

The ratio now stands at 38.1, age of qualified teachers when further reduction possible, he said.

The ratio now stands at 38.1, age of qualified teachers when further reduction possible, he said.

Each year since 1960, he said, a reduction of two in the ratio had been no problem.

There had been no problem in the Victoria and Lower

Mainland areas, but outlying districts found themselves in the position of not being able to get any sufficiently qualified teachers to make a reduction possible, he said.

But department planning is aimed at a ratio of 35.1 "as soon as we can."

Bruins Feel Anger

Five-Game 'Holiday' For Canadiens' Star

MONTREAL.—Bernie Geoffrion got his share in the pocketbook yesterday, but it was Boston Bruins who felt the backwash. The Bruins, who had been handed a five-game suspension, which will cost them in the neighborhood of $1,500, were back in the thick of the National Hockey League race, beating them 5-0 to get back in the thick of the National Hockey League race.

Dickie Moore scored twice and had three assists. Claude Provost and Bobby Rousseau got two goals each, and Bill Hicke and rookie Bill McCrory scored once as Canadiens moved within two points of second-place Toronto and just four behind Chicago.

Moore's goals gave him a career total of 250.

First four games of the fifty final had been bitterly close, but Esquimalt had a clean edge over the pick of the IAA Commercial League last night. Sparked by the return of league scoring champion Ken Maxwell, who had missed the first four games, Esquimalt had a 2-1 lead after a period, went up 3-2 after two and outscored the Victoria club 3-2 in the final 20 minutes.

Joe Lannarelli and Bob Fowler scored twice for Esquimalt, and Lou Darshe scored a goal and assisted on four others, including a beautiful effort by Maxwell in the second period. John Makowski and John Morris got the other Esquimalt goals.

Jim Bronson scored twice.

BRANDON.—British Columbia's chance for a second men's curling championship rests on a rather unlikely occurrence in today's last two draws but Glen Harper and his Duncan rink continued their fine comeback Thursday to stay alive.

Beaten on Tuesday by Northern Ontario and Nova Scotia and apparently hopelessly out of things with the tougher rinks ahead, Harper ran his win streak to five games Thursday with victories over Prince Edward Island, Manitoba and Newfoundland, in that order. He started his streak Wednesday by defeating Saskatchewan and Alberta on successive draws.

Team	W	L	T	P	GA	PTS
Alberta	41	20	14	5	79	75
British Columbia	42	32	21	4	101	28
Manitoba	42	28	12	2	91	72
Prince Edward Island	42	28	11	10	107	31
Nova Scotia	42	33	21	11	158	43
Newfoundland	54	14	13	15	102	42

Luck with Leaders

Harper's rink, in top form, had no trouble in any of its three Thursday games. The BC champions handed the Saskatchewan Doug Campbell a 1-11 beating in the morning, followed up by handing Manitoba's Herb Leeper his seventh straight loss, 12-7, then walloped John Pike's Newfoundlanders, 16-2.

However, both Alberta and Saskatchewan barely escaped morning defeats with Alberta, in particular, getting a big break.

Winless Quebec was the rink which all but handed Shields his second loss, trailing 6-7. Both of the leaders, who heading home but with last night's six ends on the afternoon draw, Alberta enroute to takeout for a win. But he a 1-13 win over Northern Ontario and Saskatchewan in a 1-13 rout of Nova Scotia.

A Record-of Sorts

Ontario's Bob Mann calling the shots for three collegians, also won three straight Thursday and could prove a stumbling block for BC on the last day.

Mann started with a 9-8, extra-end win over hapless Manitoba, edged by Newfoundland, 10-9, with two on the 11th and another pair on the 12th end when skip John Pike failed to draw down to two rocks in the four-foot ring, and then wound up a 9-5 winner over New Brunswick.

Manitoba continued to make the kind of news that is picking up the one-time stronghold of the game. The trimming by BC in the afternoon set a record for the province. Never before has Manitoba, which boasts of 15 champion skip rinks, ever lost more than six games in the Canadian final.

But Leeper and his rink finally made it in the evening when two perfect records were put on the line, handing him his Quebec's eighth straight setback, 15-5.

Quebec skip Bill Kent lost his two first games Wednesday.

New South African Shares Golf Lead

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Three veterans and an unknown from South Africa shot five-under-par 67s Thursday for the opening-round lead in the $25,000 Pensacola Open golf tournament.

Joining the three better known pros, Gary Player, Doug Sanders and Julius Boros, was the 25-year-old Allen Henning of Johannesburg. Player also is from Johannesburg.

Henning shot a 32-35 67 over Tommy Bolt.

Earl's a Pearl Pilgrim Progresses

Earl Pilgrim of Victoria PPCL scored a first-round knockout over Wilf Trohan of Calgary last night as Army fighters cleared the way for tonight's Western Command semi-finals with six elimination bouts.

Semi-finals start at 8 p.m. at the Work Point gym. Finals are scheduled tomorrow night at 8.

Pilgrim, Oregon Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion this year, turned in the night's most impressive performance. His bout was a de facto elimination in the open division, the other five coming in the novice class.

Three for Three

Three lines out and three sailfish on and caught was record of B.C. fishing party in Acapulco recently, Gordon Patterson, left, 13; father Jack Patterson, and Fred Tanner, all of Victoria, and Ricky Marks, right, 13, made the trip, landed these three, and finished the holiday with six sailfish. Ricky, who weighs 97 pounds, caught the first one, a 120-pounder over nine feet long.

For Howard Russell Cup

Oak Bay in Rugby Final

Oak Bay gained a bye into Carnarvon Park to determine the Howard Russell Cup final who will face the Rays Friday, March 15 in the cup final.

At Esquimalt, Oak Bay left the field at half time with a 50 margin on a try by Bruce Pettigrew which was converted by Don McCormick. The Victoria High and Mount View, scoring finished in the second scheduled next Wednesday at half when Rick Todd made the score 50 on an unconverted try.

Fears that the Howard Russell Cup final might not have been played under the lights

OUTDOORS with Alec Merriman

Cutthroat trout fishing has been hot in the Sooke area at the mouths of the rivers and creeks and in Sooke Basin and Sooke Harbor.

At Muir Creek best fishing has been at low slack, just as the tide turns to come in, when the pool at the mouth of the river has been hot for fly fishermen. As the tide comes in follow the fish upstream.

Light catches of cutthroats averaging about 12 inches have been taken on a wet fly while those fishing with spoons alongside the fly fishermen have been settling for one or two.

An orange Mickey Finn or any small silver-bodied fly are worth trying.

Jordan River is worth a try at the mouth, where some times there is also some terrific perch fishing on a fly.

Sooke River has been good from the mouth up to the picnic flats above the highway bridge and waders can get some good fly fishing from the beach, just beyond the Sooke Hotel, where a new oyster plant has been built.

Billings at Jackson's Spit is a good spot to fish cutthroat and a tiny minnow is proving productive there.

Waters inside Esquimalt Lagoon, anywhere from the mouth of the lagoon, to in front of Royal Roads and along the beach road often produce good cutthroat fishing.

This is the time to get out along the Colquitz and any of those small creeks we mentioned a couple of weeks ago. Millstream has been producing a few.

From the other end of the Island Victorian John Ebert, who has recently taken over the Rustic Auto Court at Campbell River, gives an encouraging report. He landed a four-pounder on a black and white bucktail below Ladate Falls.

Some big fish are dimpling the waters of Melvor Lake and Ebert lost four on a fly. But and lure fishermen haven't had too much success yet in Melvor.

Upper Campbell and Buttle are producing mostly to worm and float fishermen. The little lakes in the area should be producing. The Oyster has been good for steelhead and now as the time the Salmon River should be producing some good steelhead. It is already giving up good trout fishing.

Saltwater fishermen have been getting good winter spring fishing from Painter's Lodge to Menzies Bay, with a white plug best producer.

At Courtenay the steelheading fishing has been falling off and those that have been caught have been mostly dark.

Lakes and streams have been picking up for trout fishing in the Alberni. Fly fishing has been fair in most arms of Spruce Lake and a 5-12 pounder was taken from Carnation Lake on the way fly this week.

Somenos River has been giving lots of sport to youngsters seeking pan-sized cuts and rainbows.

Steelheading has fallen off in the Nanaimo, but the small lakes are producing trout.

Steelhead are getting harder to find in the Cowichan, although there is some pretty good trout fishing all along the river.

Quamichan Lake is giving up trout, but Somenos is still flooding the fields and is a little hard to fish yet. Dougan is a good bet.

San Juan and Harris Creek have been poor.

Oak Bay is still a good bet for blues and big grise, but after a good start in December, the Sooke-Victoria-Oak Bay waterfront has been disappointing for winter springs.

Finlayson Arm is still the hot spot for blues and big grise, but the blues have switched to feeding on small shrimp and their activity periods are getting shorter.

Backfalls first thing in the morning have been most consistent, but there is no telling when other activity periods will occur during the day. Mostly they jump all around you, driving you mad.

The blues appear to move in and out with the tide from the White Lady to the Narrows on that side. They appear to be another pocket from the Boulder to Willis Point, where some good fly fishing has been good for blues and a player up to two ounces and a little minnow, which brought him a limit catch.

At Brentwood end they are still getting winter springs and jacks, but it is taking a lot of scratching. Tod Inlet is still giving up a few springs, there are jacksprings in Cotes Bay and a few blues off Willis Point.

at Royal Athletic Park on March 15, have now been cleared up by the Oak Bay victory.

If the Rays had lost against Esquimalt, it would have forced the resumption of league play which has been cut short to work in the final a week Friday. Victoria High is the only team to complete its eight league games.

The idea of playing the rugby final under the lights at Royal Athletic Park was introduced last year and follows the same lines as the Colquitz Cup inter-high soccer final held in November. Game time is 7:30.

Regulation Bill

Cabinet to Have Sweeping Powers Over Tradesmen

A bill giving the provincial government sweeping power to regulate tradesmen was introduced in the legislature yesterday.

Brought in as an amendment to the Apprenticeship and Tradesmen's Qualification Act, the bill gives the government authority to order proficiency certificates for all tradesmen and to forbid employment of those who don't hold such certificates.

The law, designated Bill 31, does not come into force without a cabinet order, and introduction of the new regulations is expected to be done gradually in pace with growth of vocational training and retraining facilities.

CABINET TO DECIDE. Power to designate regulated trades and areas in which compulsory certification shall apply rests with the cabinet.

A spokesman said the regulations are in line with those in several other provinces.

Members of designated trades would be required to take examinations set up by a special board composed of representatives from labor, management and government.

An official said the compulsory certification features of the amendment would probably come in trade fields for which voluntary certification provision already exists. These include radio, television, auto mechanics and refrigeration.

Examinations, when they are drawn up, would be designed to meet the standards of other provinces so the proficiency would not be limited only to B.C.

The bill also drops age restrictions for apprentices. Previously they have been a minimum of 15 years and a maximum of 21.

With these limits lifted an individual who dropped out of school below the age of 15 could get started on learning a trade. By the same token, older individuals would be able to apprentice in a trade if they wanted to.

More Money and Planning Urged to Boost Economy

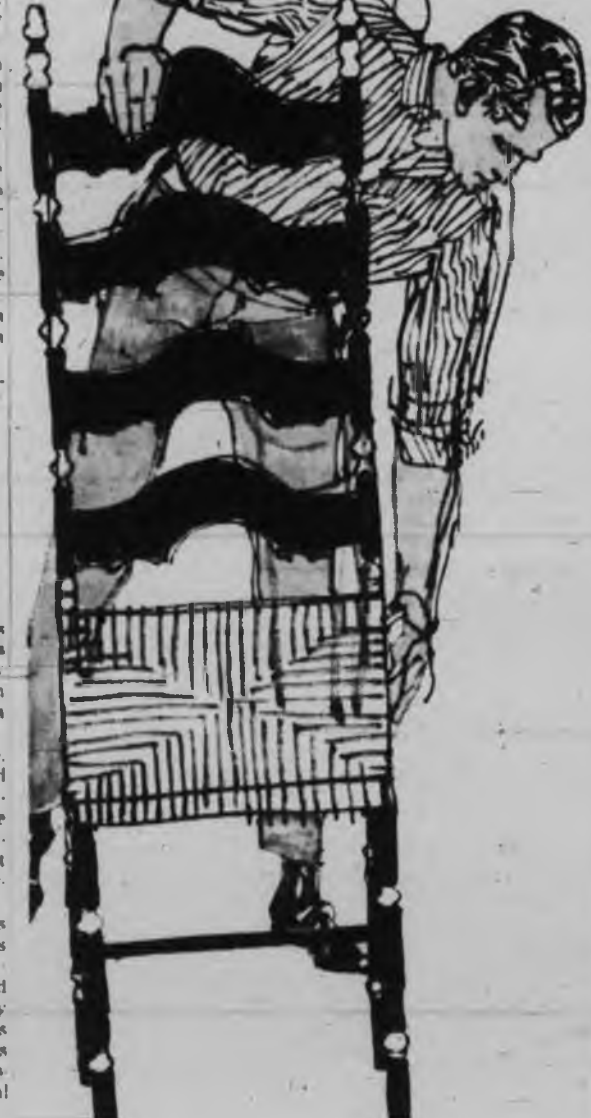

Trade and commerce department needs more money and more planning, Liberal leader Ray Perrault says.

He told Attorney-General Robert Bonner, also minister of industrial development, trade and commerce, that establishment of a productivity council in B.C. would aid faster expansion of secondary industry.

The comment came Thursday as the legislature approved department spending of $800,405.

Mr. Perrault said he was "bewildered" that the government spends less than $1,000,000 out of a $373,000,000 budget for active promotion of the economy of the province.

Check Slated On Charges At Hospitals

There are no extra charges if St. Joseph's Hospital is forced to place an emergency patient in a private room when ward accommodation is full, a spokesman said last night.

Sister Mary Ann Celeste, hospital administrator, said that if incoming emergency patients request a ward, and the hospital is not able to accommodate them in anything but a private room, "no differential charge is made."

But the patient, she said, is moved to a ward as soon as possible.

Patients have complained to the government that they had to pay private room rates under similar circumstances at the only other major hospital in the area, the Royal Jubilee.

They admitted that they had been transferred to wards as soon as possible, but had been charged for the time they were in private accommodation.

Health Minister Eric Martin said late Thursday the chief inspector of hospitals for the province is looking into the situation at both hospitals.

Start Young

Current methods of teaching children foreign languages seem to be a dismal failure in many cases, Social Credit whip Ben Price (Vancouver-Burrard) said Thursday.

He suggested it was a serious waste of money and pupils' time to begin teaching languages when students reached high school.

Children of New Canadians seemed to learn English fluently in a year or two at the age of five or six, he said, and Canadian children could probably learn just as quickly if exposed to foreign languages at a similar age.

Firm Gets $1,799,730

The cabinet has approved payment of an extra $1,799,730 to Ferini, Pacific Ltd., for extra work on the Port Mann bridge over the Fraser.

The amount was set by a special tribunal headed by Mr. Justice James Gandy. Ferini asked $3,000,000 in addition to the $7,500,000 paid on its bridge foundation contract.

B.C. experts 42.5 per cent of the extra payment will be reimbursed by Ottawa. The bridge is part of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Logging Operators Facing Blackmail?

Logging operators face a system of "blackmail" as a result of bidding practices on timber, the legislature's committee on forestry was told.

The "battle of the auction room" was described in a brief submitted by the Truck Loggers Association, representing many small operators.

The brief said when an established operator wants to cut a certain area of timber, he asks the government to put it up for auction.

Sealed tenders are submitted. If the operator who asks for the auction does not make the highest bid he has the right to match the highest bid and acquire the timber.

The brief said that generally previous to the advertised date of the auction the operator who asked for the auction "is approached by an individual and threatened that unless the operator would agree to sell him a certain portion of the logs from the sale at a discounted price he would bid the sale up to the detriment of the operator."

University At Nelson

British Columbia's first private university will be created this session of the legislature.

Education Minister Peterson said Thursday that legislation will be introduced creating the University of Notre Dame at Nelson.

At present the Roman Catholic Notre Dame College cannot grant a degree. It has long called for university status.

NDP Seeks to Curb Party Election Funds

British Columbia elections are going to become penny pinching affairs if the NDP ever gains power.

The mysterious donors of campaign funds will lose their comfortable anonymity.

A bill placed before the legislature by Mrs. Margaret Hobbs (NDP-Revelstoke)

would limit the expenditure by any party in any year to $50,000.

Candidates would be limited to a sum equal to 10 cents a head for each constituency elector.

According to returns filed in the legislature after the last provincial election in 1960, the NDP proposal would leave the Tories and the Tories hardest hit. Social Credit said it spent $280,000 for election expenses and the Conservatives $106,000.

Liberal returns showed $36,700 and CCF (NDP) $29,800.

But unless the NDP wins an election, the bill is not likely to become law.

If it gets before the House at this session it will be defeated and if it doesn't get before the House it will die on the order paper.

35 Pupils Per Teacher B.C. Aim

British Columbia hopes to have one teacher for every 35 pupils, Education Minister Leslie Peterson told the legislature last night.

This came about because the department found a shortage of qualified teachers when the school term started in September.

Each year since 1960, he said, the ratio dropped in the Victoria and Lower Mainland areas, but outlying districts found themselves in the position of not being able to get any sufficiently qualified teachers to make a further reduction possible, he said.

But department planning is aimed at a ratio of 35:1 "as soon as we can."

Liquor Nets Fines

Two minors were fined $20 each in Saanich magistrate's court Thursday on separate charges of being in possession of liquor.

John Robert Knezachy, HMCS Skeena, was found driving on the Patricia Bay highway about 3 a.m. Feb. 17 with a half-bottle of beer behind his back.

Michael Ellis, 5529 Alderley, was getting out of his car at a drive-in just before 12:30 a.m. Feb. 16 when a bottle of beer fell to the pavement. He admitted being the owner.

STOLE GAS

Vickers David Henderson, 1331 Vining, pleaded guilty to stealing five gallons of gas. Court was told the accused was with two juveniles when their car ran out of gas.

Using a hose and can they carried with them in the back seat, they siphoned gas out of a parked car in the 4200-block Quadra Street.

Henderson was remanded to March 14 for probation report and sentence.

Carlo Parlatto was found guilty of common assault against his ex-wife Maureen Browne, 3548 Tillicum. He was bound over under his own recognizance on a $100 peace bond for six months.

Colin T. de Macedo, 18, of 1875 Ventura Way, appeared for sentence on two charges of stealing gasoline from private automobiles.

Sentence was suspended on the first charge. The youth was placed under a $100 peace bond for six months. On the second charge, he was fined $25.

RECORD PITY

"Your probation report shows you are a very good young citizen in every other respect," Magistrate William Ostler said. "It is a pity you now have a criminal record."

Prosecutor Kenneth Murphy told the court that restitution had been made.

Bursting Beer Barrel Kills Two

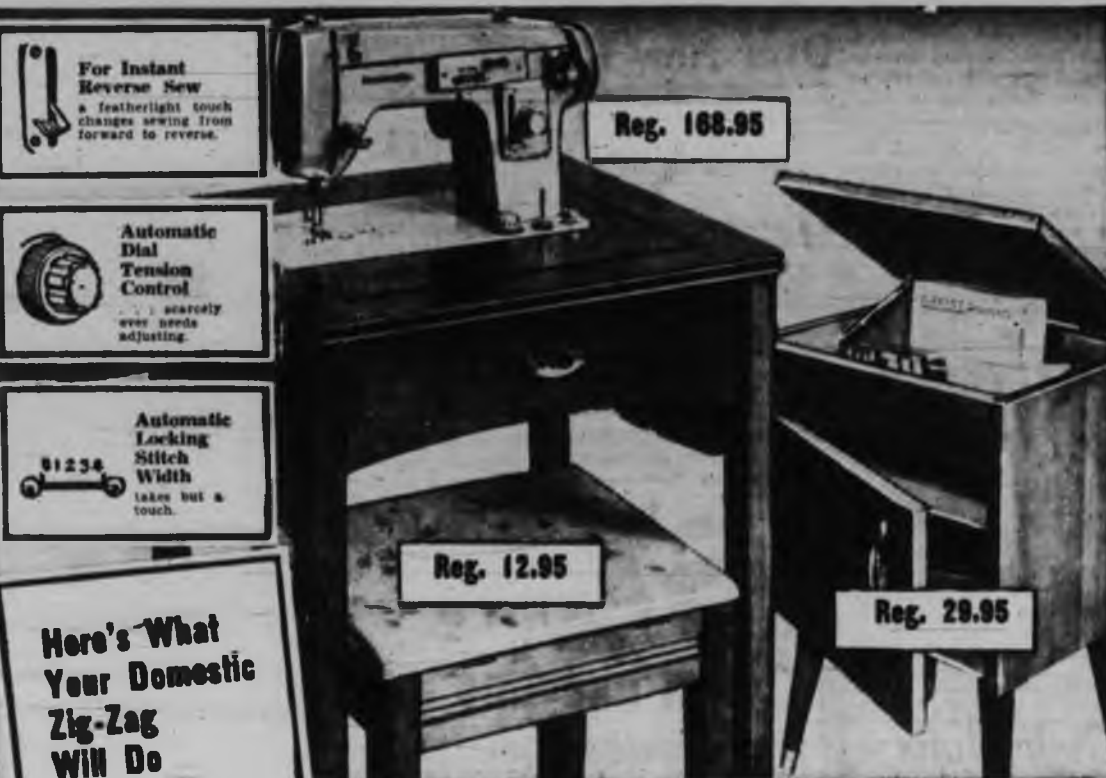

CHICAGO (AP) — A beer keg being tapped exploded Wednesday in a tavern, killing the bartender and the co-owner.

Three customers escaped injury. John Ghidotti, 61, the bartender, was dead on arrival at hospital and Peter Baldassari, 72, the co-owner, died a few hours later in hospital.

Police said the explosion happened when the men inserted a tube into the keg so the beer could be drawn out under pressure.

Guard Feet, Train Wisely for Walkathon

Participants in the March 30 Colonist 50-mile Walkathon should train every day over a distance of 10 miles to get into shape, a former Olympic coach says.

"Contestants should walk five miles, then rest and walk back five miles but stop immediately when anything hurts," says Archie McKinnon. Here are his tips:

- The main thing is to avoid blisters, calluses, ingrown toenails or friction on their feet.
- Leave the top skin on a blister. Don't tear it off, as it would encourage infection from sock dye.

- Walk a minimum of 10 miles a day, but don't under-train or over-train.
- After the training, get a good night's sleep. Don't go tearing out to a long dance or tiring amusement.
- Bathe feet in a strong salt water solution every day to toughen up the skin.

- Apply unperfumed, plain soap to feet. Soap forms a layer of protective foam when the feet sweat during training.
- Wear fine silk socks without seams and watch for loose threads which could cause friction and infection.
- Over the silk socks, wear comfortable home-knit woolen - socks which act as a cushion for the feet.

- Wear ankle boots, not plain shoes, for support. They should fit snugly, neither too tight nor too loose. This is essential.
- Don't drink too much while walking.
- Drinks recommended are

- beef broth, tea (no milk), orange juice, coffee only if marcher is habitual coffee drinker.
- Good chocolate for food, honey or egg nog. No heavy meals while walking.
- Wear suspenders rather than belts. Neck and waist should not be restricted by tight clothing.
- "Actually three weeks is not

- very much time to train for a 50-mile walkathon," Mr. McKinnon said.
- On the other hand, walking doesn't strain the heart or the lungs quite as much as running, he said. The main point is care of the feet "which take all the beating."
- "In walking it is pretty hard to hurt the heart," he added.

Sports Subsidy Quashed

By IAN STREET

City finance committee yesterday rejected a scheme to pay a direct subsidy to amateur sport in Victoria.

Its members criticized lack of adequate safeguards against abuse of the $5 annual subsidy to be paid to Victoria residents playing for amateur teams competing in city and district leagues.

"I'm afraid of it," said Ald. Austin Curtis. "This is such a big question. It could affect so many things."

DISCRIMINATION

Ald. J. L. W. McLean said: "I don't particularly like the principle of subsidizing certain people playing certain sports. It amounts to discrimination against those who may play another sport, say, tennis."

He favored the other half of the proposed $5,000 amateur sport assistance scheme which would open Macdonald and Royal Athletic parks free for junior team games and all amateur practices.

The subsidy would cost an estimated $2,400 this year and another $2,600, mostly additional labor, for free opening of the parks.

Finance chairman Ald. Arthur Dowell said he was opposed to the subsidy plan but would like to see something further done to assist local amateur sports.

'PAY FOR FUN'

He was supported by Ald. McLean who said "some of those active in amateur sports here feel that a financial burden exists." He added: "I wouldn't like them to think that we are turning them down flat."

Ald. Curtis said he felt youngsters today "should be willing to pay for some of their fun."

He added: "In my day we had to buy our own equipment and pay our own travelling costs."

"I'm very much opposed to the attitude, taken by some people, that a youngster can't play football just because he hasn't a football sweater," Mrs. Wilson said.

'ON OWN'

"I'm all in favor of providing places for children to play and then letting them go to it on their own."

Park superintendent Herb Warren earlier explained that the subsidy was primarily designed to assist amateur teams with limited finances to defray cost of hiring indoor facilities.

Repeat Award Dockyard Firemen Win New Honor For Prevention

HMC Dockyard has won the first of the year. In January, Howard Green grand award they captured the grand for excellence in fire prevention of the National Fire Protection Association.

Competition with 290 federal HMC Dockyard is the first and military establishments, military establishment to win the navy announced last night, either of the trophies on more.

It is the second major honor than one occasion. The dockyard firemen since 1959.

Effectiveness of the fire prevention program is reflected in the extremely low fire loss in ships and establishments within HMC Dockyard's jurisdiction during 1962, a total of only $149.

Vice-Admiral H. S. Rayner, chief of naval staff, sent his personal congratulations from Ottawa yesterday "to all concerned with the Command fire prevention program."

"The low fire losses," he said, "can be attributed to effective fire prevention measures, efficient firefighting procedures, and a concerted effort by all naval and civilian personnel to eliminate fire hazards and practice fire safety."

Progressive Conservative candidate George Chatterton and Liberal candidate Robert Ostler seem to be headed for a series of two-man debates, and both have indicated their dislike for Canadian splinter parties.

Whereupon, Social Credit candidate Edward Lum said he will not attend any of the all-candidate meetings, either.

New Democratic Party candidate John Windsor said that he and his policies will not disappear, just because the Tories and Grits "close their eyes and pretend I don't exist."

Sunshine Draws Them Out

First rise of summer at Victoria University is Rose Noel of Oliver, right, who took advantage of Thursday's warm weather to relax on campus with fellow second-year education students Donna Norton of Oliver, left, and Helen Wahl of Prince Rupert. Weatherman William Mackie predicts another warm, summery day today.

School's Out For Parley Of Teachers

More than 23,000 children in all Greater Victoria schools will get a holiday today as teachers attend the annual teachers convention at Victoria High School today and Saturday.

Theme of the annual convention is The Teacher and New Trends in Education.

Special speakers include Martin Mayer, noted author on present-day education and its impact upon modern society; Dr. Samuel Black, of the University of British Columbia, widely-travelled expert on art; Dr. C. B. Alender, of the University of Washington, authority on modern mathematics; and Dr. C. J. Brauner, also of UBC, who will discuss Changes in Emphasis in Recent Years in Educational Philosophy.

Buoy Set Up

The navy has established a temporary lighted buoy near Albert Head Light, mariners have been advised by the department of transport.

Position of the buoy is 072° 10' north, 124° 05' west from Albert Head Light.

Stormy Meeting

Three Liberals Quit Executive

By JACK FRY

Three Liberal stalwarts resigned their executive positions when the Victoria riding central executive turned down a call for a second nominating convention at a stormy meeting last night.

President W. Geoffrey Ellis is being controlled "by a small group setting themselves up as a political machine."

Treasurer A. G. Beattie and Ward 1 president Sidney C. Smith resigned after the new convention motion was defeated by a vote of 21 to 8.

At the close of the executive meeting, three Liberal stalwarts stepped into an adjacent room, where a meeting of 85 Liberal workers was already in progress, mapping out their campaign.

The official Liberal candidate is David W. Gross, who in the last general election was handily defeated in the Esquimalt-Saanich riding by Progressive Conservative candidate George Chatterton.

Foster Isherwood, who after he was defeated by a narrow majority had claimed last week's Liberal convention was manipulated, did not attend last night's meetings.

He told The Daily Colonist later that he was definitely in the field as an independent and that he will set up his headquarters immediately in the 600-block Fort Street.

Mr. Isherwood was Liberal candidate in the Victoria riding during the last election and was eased out by Tory A. DeB. McPhillips, by 216 votes.

Isherwood Confident

The party split was expected and put on his hat and to weaken the chances of both candidates at the polls, but Mr. Isherwood said he is confident that he can win as an independent and that Liberal officials in Ottawa apparently disbelieved a report he had filed on the nomination convention.

"The report I sent to the National Liberal Federation in Ottawa was completely disregarded, and in fact, there was a telegram sent to me in effect that so far as the powers that be are concerned, the convention had been conducted in a completely democratic manner," Mr. Ellis said.

The telegram from Ottawa was signed by Sen. John J. Conolly, president of the federal party, who acted on a report from somebody else, said Mr. Ellis.

Ellis 'Going Fishing'

He said he plans to go fishing, and "shall not take an active part in the campaign, so far as Gross is concerned."

He said for the best interests of all I pledge to vote for the best measures, not party preferences," he said.

"I feel my chances are very good. I have had wonderful support from individuals and in financial ways too. I feel truthfully that the people of Victoria are ready for a good independent voice speaking for the best interests of Canada."

Mr. Gross said that during his recent visit to Ottawa he was told by Lester Pearson that the opposition leader has "great hopes" for the Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich seats.

Cox Urges 'Better Campaign'

Allan Cox of Oak Bay said during a Victoria Liberal Association organizational meeting last night, that "one of the other parties has a very vocal and energetic candidate."

"I don't think he is as good as our candidate, but he is going to put on a pretty good campaign, and we have to put on a better campaign."

Mr. Cox was apparently referring to Progressive Conservative candidate Eric Charman.

Two Groups Start Long Walk

Eight Victoria youngsters set out in two independent groups at 11 p.m. yesterday in an attempt to march 50 miles.

First group consists of five Victoria High School boys, all toughy or soccer players: Derek Reimer, 13, John Phillips, 16, Wayne Le Masurier, 13, Thomas McNeely, 13, and Robert Iverson, 16.

Mrs. D. P. Reimer, 1374 Richardson, told the Colonist they would leave at a point north of Duncan, carry flashlights and wear light clothing.

AFTER RECORD Two 3rd Medium Battery cadets and a civilian boy said they would start at the same time 12 miles north of Duncan "at the 50-mile marker."

They are WO2 Robin Corio, 16, S. Sgt. Peter Martin, 16, and Wayne Budd 16.

S. Sgt. Martin said he wanted to try to beat 2nd Lt. Ralph Gustafson's record of 11 hours and 30 minutes established several days ago.

"If I make good time I expect to participate in the Colonist Walkathon March 30," he said.

Firing Practice Seaward firing practice will be carried out at Albert Head Camp by 1st Battalion PPCLI from 9 a.m. to noon March 15.

In House Today

Continuing consideration of education department spending planned for the 1963-64 fiscal year is scheduled when the legislature meets at 2 p.m. today.

Half the estimates were approved in a night sitting Thursday.

If time permits, members will also consider labor department spending.

'Dirty Fallout' Bird-Killer?

By JURGEN HESSE

A large number of birds have been killed by "dirty fallout" from high atomic tests over Johnston Island, a Malcolm Island fisherman has told The Daily Colonist.

"A large number of insectivorous small birds died of a mysterious malady in this district during June and July of 1962," Mr. Homer said.

"Evidence so far gathered indicates these deaths were most probably caused by a lethal dose of dirty fallout from the U.S.'s Johnston Island (high) nuclear tests."

Mr. Homer appealed to all area residents to keep a look-out for dead birds, and to save them for laboratory analysis.

Doubtful, But Not Impossible-Guiguet

The man who prompted Mr. Guiguet's comments was Wayne Homer, a native of Sointula, near Port McNeill.

"We've had this sort of scare before," said Mr. Guiguet. "When a few years ago lead seals were washed ashore here, their death was attributed by some people to the atomic bomb. But there are bound to be many dead seals among a large number."

"Birds are generally declining in number anyway," he added. "Other bird species, like the black brant, have doubled their number in the past three years. They live in a seven-year cycle."

The curator suggested Mr. Homer send his collected dead birds for radiation detection to, radiation," he added, the University of B.C.'s zoology department.

This is exactly what Mr. Homer has in mind.

He is also worried about possible mutation effects through radiation.

"We have found snow-white salmon berries. In all my life I have only seen them in pink."

Mr. Guiguet said he himself had often seen pale yellow salmon berries and had knowledge of other coloring as well.

"At the same time it is known mutation of plants can be induced by X-rays or gamma rays," he added,

Revival of 'the Fringe on Top'

By HELEN FARMELEE

The surly-with-the-fringe-on-top isn't as passe as you think. It's been revived and in a contemporary setting it's become a YOU-with-the-fringe-on-top.

The fringe is the latest news in postiches (those extra hairpieces which have been swirling glamor over coiffures since last summer).

It's really a front postiche, a variation on the usual top-of-the-head postiche which has been used so extensively by famous French hair stylist Alexandre.

A fringe is the same color as your hair and is clipped onto the front of your coiffure, just at the crown, to sweep down over forehead and ears, adding a whole new front look to your hairdo.

This means you can have a glamorous instant hairdo without a complete wig to pull over your hair. If your own hair is looking scruffy and you have an appointment, clip on the fringe and you're away.

It's called a "save the day" switch. For an added evening touch of glamour, simply pin a crown postiche on top of the fringe, they select a second wig of a completely different shade to make life more interesting.

Each is guaranteed to create a sensation at a cocktail party.

"We're often asked to tint a wig blue, pink or mauve to match an evening dress," said Mr. Lou Cohen of Wig Creations.

"Last week a woman asked us to color her wig with an aluminum shade for the evening."

Many women order wigs of a shade to match their fur coat, said Mr. Cohen. You'd be surprised at the number of shades of mink there are.

Mr. Cohen suggests his customers choose a wig the same color as their own hair, or a shade just a little lighter.

"Then, when they get more daring," he said, "we suggest

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm enraged with that secretary who was ready to flip because her "bright, attractive, well-educated" boss closed his business conversations on the telephone with "bye bye."

It's sickening the way secretaries move in on a man's life and take him over. She starts by reminding Mr. Worthington of his luncheon appointment. Then she reminds him of his barbershop appointment. Next she tactfully suggests that he buy Mrs. Worthington something special for her birthday. (He had forgotten, so of course he's grateful.)

The next thing you know she goes along with him to select the wife's gift. After shopping they stop for a few martinis. Suddenly, Mr. Worthington becomes "Hal."

The rest is easy. Hal can't seem to get his work done during office hours — so he must work evenings. The night work doesn't sit very well at home and his wife begins to complain. This, of course, makes her a nag. So after 20 years and three kids, Mr. Worthington decides his wife doesn't understand him. They have nothing in common. She is a bore.

Don't tell me my imagination has run wild. Miss Landers, because it just happened to me. Mrs. WORTHINGTON.

Dear Mrs. Worthington (which as everybody knows is a made-up name): The secretary has an inside track but so does the nurse or the dental assistant — many female whose activities bring her into close contact with a male.

Familiarity does not always breed contempt. Sometimes it and I also like the vinyl floors.

Incidentally, I have both and they seem fairly compatible.

Dear Ann: Help! I have a chance to attend the Baptist Youth Conference next July in Palestine. I went to the Toronto conference in 1958 and it was the most inspiring experience of my life. But my husband says he will divorce me if I go.

I would be attending as a representative of my parents' evangelistic organization and they would pay my expenses. Glenn and my parents do not get along. He says this trip is an effort on their part to cause trouble between us.

Please, Ann, tell me what to do. REBA.

Dear Reba: It would be nice if somehow you could get Glenn's blessings, because if you can't I say don't go.

He resents your parents' part in this, and he may have a valid point. Either persuade him or stay home and save your marriage.

The woman who is considering a new floor should be told that there is no way to protect that floor against spike heels. Even asphalt and hardwood floors can be damaged.

A 112-pound girl wearing stilettos heels exerts static pressure of 1,000 pounds per square inch every time she takes a step. A 224-pound man exerts 28 pounds per square inch.

No please urge women to demand safer heels, Ann. — A. P.

Dear A. P.: I'm torn, my friend. I like the stiletto heels and I also like the vinyl floors.

Fresh Asparagus Here

By JILL ARLETT

It's an everyday occurrence when 45,000 pounds of fresh fruit and vegetables arrive from California, but to me it's a gold-mine of information for you, the shopper.

While "on tour" yesterday at one local wholesale place which has almost every produce item imaginable, I got an earful—and a mouthful—of a lot more than I had bargained for.

SALAD GREENS

For salad-lovers, a wide range of greens came with this shipment, including two types of lettuce which will add both color and flavor to your salad.

Romaine lettuce, an excellent salad base and ideal for holding cottage cheese or mixed fruit salad, is distinctive by its long, flat leaf and slightly stronger taste.

ADDING COLOR

Trying to add color to a salad is always a problem (especially if you're short of red vegetables!) but this can be solved easily with red lettuce. This kind has a soft, velvety leaf and is sure to look appetizing. Both lettuces are 29 cents a head.

To add a nippy taste to salad, sprinkle on small pieces of endive. Although some Europeans use it in place of lettuce, it may be a little strong for the conservative eaters.

DISTINCTIVE FLAVOR

A popular item in this shipment was red cabbage, which makes an attractive cole slaw. It not only has a more distinctive flavor than ordinary cabbage but also has a lot more food value. It will retail at about 23 cents a pound.

Fresh California asparagus

No. 1 grade—made its debut this week, and is priced from 39 to 49 cents a pound.

These and more produce items, including parsley, spinach, radishes, baby turnips, celery and carrots, will be available in abundance at several Victoria stores today.

You'd find it hard to believe how fresh they've kept if you hadn't seen how carefully they were packed and stored yesterday.

As soon as they arrive, they are carted into a moist cold room, with plenty of air circulation, then sprayed with ice. The next day, or even the same day sometimes, they go to the retail stores.

LOTS OF BANANAS

Bananas are now arriving in large quantities from Costa Rica. Shipped here when they are still very green, they are ripened upon arrival. Five extremely humid rooms are kept for this purpose, and as the banana progresses it moves from one room to the next.

Incidentally, if you've found it difficult to buy a really ripe banana, don't be afraid to get a slightly green one and take it home to ripen it yourself.

Simply place the green bananas in a moist paper bag, and keep it in a warm place (preferably a dark cupboard) for a couple of days.

LOCAL RED RHUBARB

Although we've been talking exclusively of these wonderful imported products, perhaps the best one of all is our own locally grown hothouse rhubarb.

Apparently only one hothouse in Victoria is growing rhubarb, and the results are simply superb. Stalks are a bright pink-red color, clean and flawless. Retail price is about 29 cents a pound.

Garden Notes

Think as You Prune

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Yesterday we discussed the job of pruning the roses—the why and wherefore thereof—and we covered in fair detail how to go about pruning newly planted bushes. Today, as I promised, we'll have a look at the roses which have been in your garden for a year or more. These are pruned according to their class—whether they are hybrid teas, floribundas, rambles, etc., and sometimes according to their variety. Generally speaking, the weaker the growth, the harder you prune.

Use a very sharp knife or a really good pair of secateurs, making sure you get a good clean cut with no crushed or bruised wood or ragged edges. If your secateurs are something less than perfect, finish off by smoothing the surface of the cut with a knife. Don't tug or pull at the bush or you may loosen the roots in the soil. Better use two hands, one to steady the shoot below the cut.

Take your time over the pruning job and think things out as you work, visualizing the bush after it has made its new growth. If the ground is at all wet or muddy, get yourself a plank to stand or kneel on as you study your bush. Wear a tough pair of gloves, for rose prickles can be murder!

Keep in mind the purposes of pruning: To remove all dead and diseased wood, to clear the centre of the bush of all incrowing shoots so sun and air can enter freely, to limit the number of new shoots so that the energy of the bush is channelled into the production of a few superb, long-stemmed beauties rather than a multitude of indifferent blooms, and to preserve the symmetry and shapeliness of the bush.

With the hybrid teas, I start by cutting out all dead shoots and any which show the characteristic mottling of the bark which indicates disease or frost injury. Next, I take out, as low down as possible, any badly placed old growths which cross or rub against younger branches, or which may not leave enough room for the proper development of this year's shoots.

With this done, I look over carefully the growth that remains. Always keep in mind that the thinner the shoots, the less they are likely to produce fat, plump growth buds and strong new wood. Weak, spindly stuff, therefore, is cut out completely.

The old shoots which remain should now be shortened by one-half to two-thirds of their length. Look for a plump, healthy bud or for a dormant eye fairly low down and pointing outward, away from the centre of the bush, and make your clean, slanting cut immediately above this bud or eye.

After making each cut, take a look at the cross section of freshly cut wood and check its color. If the pith in the centre is discolored yellow or brown, it indicates internal frost damage and it is unlikely that the selected eye or bud will develop properly. Choose another well-placed eye lower down, where the cut wood shows clean white or green pith.

The floribundas—the roses that bear their flowers in clusters—don't require anything like as severe pruning as the hybrid teas. Take out any weak or dead canes in their entirety, shorten the main shoots by about one-third their length, again to an outward-facing eye, and do whatever shaping as may be necessary for symmetry. With older bushes, I think it is a good idea to take out one or two of the oldest, thickest, dark-colored canes every year, using a small saw, to encourage replacement shoots.

The climbers are quite a different story. How and why they are pruned is indicated by the kind of flowers they bear. The small-flowered rambles are treated like raspberries—every cane which has borne flowers is cut right off at its base and the new canes tied in to take their place. Best time to do this is immediately after flowering.

The large-flowered kinds need less pruning. The laterals—that is, the side shoots or sub-branches—should be cut back to within two or three eyes from the main branch. Where the plant becomes bare at the base, as often happens with climbing roses, you can either bend down one or more of the lower shoots to cover the bare space of wall, or shorten one or two of the base shoots drastically to induce them to push out laterals.

It is best to collect and burn all prunings and give each plant a good squirt of rose spray or rose dust as soon as the pruning job is completed.

JOHN CROSBY Fears for French Husbands

Gadgets Thin End of Wedge

PARIS — Civilization, says Thierry Maulnier in the Paris newspaper, Figaro, survives by its symbols—Egypt by its giant tombs, Greece by its temples, medieval Christianity by its cathedrals.

Our symbol, says Maulnier, is a Barbi-like woman with voluptuous curves, velvet skin in seductive, revealing clothes, pushing a vacuum cleaner, extracting snow white clothes out of the washing machine or opening a can of preserves.

All these large thoughts were stirred up by the Salon des Arts Menagers which opened here the other day. Salon des Arts Menagers means a fair for the house-keeping arts. But menager has another meaning—"to husband, to use with economy, to spare, to be careful of, to treat with prudence."

However, nothing is less economical, prudent, or careful than the Salon des Arts Menagers which is acres of vacuum cleaners, washing machines, toasters, all sorts of new bathrooms, new heating systems—inviting the French housewife to orgies of imprudence, extravagance, and carefree abandon in which nothing is husbanded, including her husband.

I went out to the Salon des Arts Menagers with my ador-

Machines Assisting Women to Dominate able French secretary and the very first thing we encountered was a French dishwasher machine with a big glass front.

"The French will never get the dishes done now," I exclaimed bitterly. "The whole process takes only three times as long and twice as much effort as the old way."

"We already have one," said my French secretary dreamily. "My grandmother loves to watch the water splashing around through the window. It's better than television."

There you have the real appeal of the electric dishwasher. It's an apparatus. All those gadgets. The energy. The feeling of power. Efficiency, my foot. The woman pushes a button, the water splashes, the machine whirs, and she has the sense of omnipotence of a man flying a jet plane.

We passed on to look at a Peugeot electric shoeshining kit. Electric shoeshining? Mon Dieu!

"We already have one," my secretary said. "It takes about twice as long as doing it the old way and you have to be very careful to hang on to the shoe or it will fly out of your hand and kill someone."

"I see," I said. Above her was a huge electric sign that revolved slowly with the single word "Progress."

We progressed forward past the electric waterfall (330 francs) with plastic waterlilies, past the wire wine baskets that look like coat hangers instead of the inefficient but lovely basketwork favored by wine pourers of yore, alas, alas, and finally to the ultimate symbol of our time to put next to those Egyptian tombs, those Greek temples—the automatic food slicer (100 per cent Swiss).

A lovely young lady was behind the apparatus, but when I asked for a demonstration, she was pushed aside by a man. He pushed a carrot into the monster. Out of one spout came carrot juice, out of the other pulp. He pushed in a tomato. Sliced tomatoes. He poured in water and whole vegetables. Voila, vegetable soup. He threw in peppercorns. Voila, pepper.

Then I noticed the beautiful young woman, smoldering away in the corner balefully. Why? Because she'd been pushed aside while a man demonstrated the apparatus. The Frenchman has kept the upper hand in his house because he's the master of the machinery. Most Frenchmen won't even permit their wives to drive.

North America is a matriarchy because the women control the appliances; they have their fingers on the button. It'll happen over here, too.

And then, as Maulnier says, the true symbol of the age will be a woman, vacuum cleaner in hand, triumphantly smiling. No man in sight. He's inside the vacuum cleaner.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Sophia Will Be There

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Sophia Loren, too nervous to come here last Oscar-time, will fly in from Italy, a week or so ahead of award-giving night, April 8, to promote her picture with Tony Perkins, Five Miles to Midnight. Sophia will, according to custom, present the Oscar to the best actor.

From New York I hear that Adlai Stevenson has been dining British stage actress Dorothy Tutin... and that Taste of Honey authors, Shelagh Delaney, is engaged... and that Red Buttons is serious about Alicia Fagan.

After three takes Jackie Gleason gave up. The seven-year-old girl in his film, Papa's Delicate Condition was supposed to sit on his lap. But there was no lap.

Famed director Fellini will handle the deluge in De Laurentis' huge epic, The Bible. With Robert Brenson directing the creation. What will they do for an encore?

Never underestimate the power of Elizabeth Taylor. Because Richard Burton did not want to be parted from the lady he loves, they used a double for his long shot Cleopatra battle scenes in Spain, and the rest of his scenes were concluded in London... and now, full steam ahead for the premiere June 12 in New York.

There are those who are betting that Richard Burton will drop Elizabeth Taylor after Cleo is well in orbit and return to his ever-patient wife. Me, I wouldn't bet on anything. How can you outguess them, when they don't know themselves what they will do from day to day.

Frank Sinatra's Beverly Hills home is on the market for $250,000. And Frankie will live more or less permanently in Palm Springs where he owns another gorgeous mansion and in his New York coop. Of course he will do his usual travelling to the Sands of Vegas and the Cal Neva Lodge in Tahoe. He owns large pieces of both.

Tony Bill is referred to by Sinatra as the actor with two first names. Tony emerges as a star in his first picture, Come Blow Your Horn. I saw him the day he started and knew then that he had that hard-to-name quality which spells star.

Maurice Chevalier recorded Mimi and Louise for his new Paramount picture, A New Kind of Love. But it will be Sinatra's recording that will be heard over the main title billing.

Of all things, Audrey Hepburn and William Holden do a take-off of Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire—as they were in those old dancing pictures—in their recent Paris When It Sizzles... and in the same picture, Tony Curtis, who hates method actors, plays a method actor.

During the filming of All the Way Home, 86-year-old Lylah Tiffany noticed a photographer about to take a portrait of her gnarled hands. "Wait a minute," said Lylah, who then wrinkled her hands to make them look really old!

Harry the Porter Refuses to Give Up

SHIPSTON - ON - STOUR, the ghost station at 8 a.m. each day, takes an hour for lunch at noon, and wends his way home at 5 p.m.

Harry, 62, refused to be railroaded to another station. He said he didn't want to leave his quiet Warwickshire village.

No passenger train has called at Shipston for 34 years, and even freight trains stopped stopping here several years ago.

But Harry didn't stop, even when they pulled up the tracks.

Even though he had no trains to watch or wave to, Harry has kept up his own further employment for this strict schedule. He arrives at man," says an official.

Car Wash Goal: Incubator

Victoria will be blanketed with car washes Saturday—the Demers Catholic Youth Organization is holding seven of them in the area between 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

INCUBATOR

Proceeds from the car washes will be used to finance another money-raising project—probably a variety show—to raise still more money to provide a new incubator for premature babies at St. Joseph's Hospital.

No fee has been set for car washes; drivers will be asked to make a donation.

LOCATIONS

Some 120 boys and girls, members of the organization, will conduct the car washes which will be held at the Town and Country shopping centre, Shelbourne shopping plaza, the Hillside shopping centre, James Bay Safeway, the Safeway at Port and Foul Bay Roads, Burnside Safeway and the Safeway store at Hillside and Quadra.

Director Says:

Medicare Could Aid Mental Health Plans

A program for improvement made for improvement of mental health facilities in services in the Kootenays in B.C. could be handled through a medicare plan, Dr. Charles Gregory, director of the provincial mental health centre in Victoria, told the Victoria Labor Council Wednesday night.

"But this does not mean I am advocating medicare," said Dr. Gregory, who had made the statement in answer to a question from the floor. "A mental health scheme under medicare would have no advantages over the present provincial scheme."

NOT ADEQUATE
Dr. Gregory said B.C., like the rest of the world, does not now have adequate mental health services but that big improvements are being made.

"Plans are now going forward for improved services in Nanaimo and plans are being made for improvement of mental health facilities in services in the Kootenays in B.C. could be handled through a medicare plan, Dr. Charles Gregory, director of the provincial mental health centre in Victoria, told the Victoria Labor Council Wednesday night.

'Sister City' In Japan Like Victoria

It's a west coast port city similar to our city. It has about 200,000 people, and is a port city on the west coast of Japan's Hokkaido province," said Mr. Grist.

It's Otaru, Japan—Victoria's sister city.

The sister city idea started last year when Junior Chamber of Commerce president Eric Chapman went to Otaru to discuss the idea with members of its Junior Chamber of Commerce.

EXCHANGES

Since then exchanges of material have been made to acquaint Jaycee members with sister cities.

Now the Jaycees hope to get other service clubs in on the project and step up exchanges in the goodwill gesture.

They plan to send tape recordings discussing the activities of the Victoria Jaycees to the Otaru group and will send literature on Victoria and British Columbia, including copies of Beautiful B.C. magazine.

RECORDING

They will also take part in a plan to make a tape recording of the sounds of Victoria and send it to Otaru.

Latest development in the exchange is a package of about 50 letters from Otaru high school students who wish to correspond with Victoria students.

LETTERS

The letters have been turned over to the Greater Victoria School Board and will be passed on to students who are interested.

"Otaru is not as cold or as warm as Victoria," said Colin Grist, of the Jaycees' International Relations Committee.

"But in other ways it is very

Saanich Schools In Booklet

An illustrated booklet containing information on Saanich School District 63 is being prepared by teachers and members of the school board.

In addition to a short history of the formation of the school district the booklet contains explanations of many improvements in curriculum, articles by the teaching staff and information on the night school program, the board's effort to provide adult education.

The book was to be on display during education week but a delay in printing has slowed its appearance several weeks.

Scouts Plan Bottle Drive

A bottle drive will be held in the Shelbourne, Mount Tolmie and Lake Hill areas Saturday morning by the Third Cedar Hill Cub and Scout group.

Anyone wishing bottle pickup should phone GR-92432.

Firms' Interest Lags

Health Plans 'Falling Through'

Proposals for supplementary employee health insurance plans to be offered through the Victoria Chamber of Commerce have probably fallen through.

Chamber manager John Copinger said last night that the proposals will probably be dropped because chamber member firms have shown insufficient interest.

The underwriting firm specified enough companies must participate to involve 150 employees.

Mr. Copinger said firms accounting for 64 employees have so far shown interest in a plan to provide medical coverage where MSA leaves off and firms accounting for 66

River Bill Delayed

OLYMPIA, Wash. (CP)—Ratification of a seven-state agreement involving the use of Columbia River waters has been held up in the state legislature here in a public versus private power fight.

The agreement, known as the Columbia River Compact Bill, has been attacked by some states that claim they would be outvoted by other upstream states.

FAMED AFTER BATTLE
In the House here, after a bitter battle between private and public power proponents, the bill was passed by the House and sent to the Senate. Now, another snag has developed.

It has to do with what had been considered a simple amendment to an entirely different Senate bill.

Under this amendment, the Thurston County Public Utility District would be empowered to sell a small water system it operates near here.

FOOT IN DOOR
Public power advocates say that if the system is sold, it would be the "foot in the door" by the private power advocates to eliminate expansion of public utilities into power distribution. Observers say the amendment could be made a peg from which public power proponents can attack the Democrat-Republican coalition in the House as being sponsored by private power companies.

To complicate matters further, Democratic Senator Al Henry, chairman of the Senate committee that will decide on the Columbia Compact, supports the amendment involving Thurston county.

Coffee Shop Owner Gets Third Chance

Proprietor of the Black Swan store-coffee shop at Elk Lake may be third time lucky on his application for commercial rezoning of his property now zoned for single family residential.

Two previous applications of Nels Whitney were rejected by council, the latest only two months ago. But, council this week called for a public hearing on Mr. Whitney's third application.

Municipal planner Antony Parr opposed all three applications, because of his policy against commercial spot zoning along the Patricia Bay Highway.

Council also called for a hearing to be held in connection with a Saanich planning department recommendation for creation of a 20-acre light industrial zone east of Douglas Street.

Dates for the hearings have not been set.

Survey Party Detours For Snow, Icy Canyons

OTTAWA (CP) — Howling blizzards, extreme cold and impassable canyons have forced a hardy team of federal surveyors to change course on a 300-mile trek across the frozen wastes of Labrador.

The survey party planned originally to travel due north for a distance of 100 miles from the northern tip of Michikamau

Lake, about 100 miles east of Shefferville, Que. From this point the surveyors were to move 200 miles east to Hopeville on Labrador's northern coast.

RUSHING WATER
William MacLellan, 37-year-old head of the party from the mapping branch of the technical surveys department, said in a report received this week that the selected route east to Hopeville is impassable due to deep canyons filled with rushing water—despite sub-zero temperatures.

Mr. MacLellan said aerial reconnaissance by a supply plane from Shefferville has resulted in the party moving farther north to the Motakwanon River, which flows east to the Labrador Sea. The surveyors who started their trek in mid-January will follow this river and will complete their mission about 18 miles north of Hopeville late in March.

WIND, SNOW
Mr. MacLellan said in an earlier report that the party had been stalled by temperatures ranging from 40 to 50 degrees below zero, winds of 25 to 30 miles an hour and snow eight to 10 feet deep.

In his latest report, he says there has been no improvement in weather conditions. During one 14-day period it snowed steadily for 12 days with the wind blowing constantly, creating drifts which bogged down the motorized toboggans.

Mr. MacLellan said the main problem now being encountered by the party is sudden blizzards. If a party working with one toboggan away from the main camp is caught in one of these blizzards, it has to be down and wait for the storm to subside.

The shots, from another car, didn't hit anyone, but three of the occupants were treated for cuts from flying glass.

All actors in the production, sponsored by the Voice of Women, have donated their fees to the Canadian Peace Research Institute.

Victorian's Painting Given to Kew

A painting of a wild flower by Victoria artist Miss Emily Sartain has been accepted by Kew Gardens in England.

In a letter to Miss Sartain, Sir George Taylor, director of the Royal Botanic Gardens at Kew, wrote: "I am most truly grateful for this presentation of the picture by which your splendid work as a botanical artist will be represented in our Kew collections."

Miss Sartain originally painted the flower for Admiral Paul Furse who in turn presented it to Kew Gardens.

The painting is of a chocolate lily which grows at Goldstream and other areas near Victoria.

Mixed Reviews Greet Nichol's Political Play

VANCOUVER (CP) — Eric Nicol's Regulus, a play with a modern political bite set in the time of the Punic Wars, was presented to the public for the first time Wednesday night and won acclaim as "the long-hoped-for Canadian play of real stature."

Jack Richards, critic for the Sun, said Nicol, columnist for the Province, "looks upon things like war, heroics, pride and patriotism with the same jaundiced eye" as playwright George Bernard Shaw.

The Sun critic recommended the play to the forthcoming Vancouver International Festival.

Province critic David Watmough, however, said the play's primary ingredients of humor and high seriousness "rob each other of effectiveness line after line, from prologue to epilogue."

Humor is plastered on dramatic action and "we don't know in the end whether a particular remark is meant to be funny or not," says Watmough.

He credited the cast and direction of Dorothy Davies with doing much to "impose a fine gloss upon this fascinating failure."

Symphony Tonight

With their guest conductor from Russia, Yuri Lutsiv, the Victoria Symphony orchestra gives its eighth program of the season at Sidney this evening and in Victoria at 3 p.m. Sunday and 8:30 p.m. Monday.

This evening's concert will be in Saanich Hall at 8:30. There are three interesting items on the program: Beethoven's 7th Symphony (ffp: 92) which is generally regarded as very pastoral in character; Lysenko's overture to Taras Bulba and Aram Khachaturian's suite for the ballet, Gayaneh. Familiar in this last item will be the Kurdish Sabre Dance.

Saanich Girl Hurt in Gym

French Strike Moves Near Crisis Stage

PARIS (AP) — Union resistance stiffened Thursday as a nationwide strike of France's nationalized coal industry moved toward a crisis stage. Some factories closed for lack of fuel; others reported they offered the miners a 5.7-per-cent wage increase spread over the next year.

The three major unions representing 200,000 coal miners ordered continuation of the strike for better wages and shorter hours despite a government plea to return to the pits. The strike began last Friday.

There were signs of growing labor unrest in other sectors of the economy as support for the miners built up among other unions.

FIRST CLASH

What Would You Do With $999

NEW YORK (AP) — What would you do if a customer hands you a $999 bill? It happened to taxi driver Harry Kuester, who picked up a man in the Bronx and drove him about eight blocks.

The passenger, smartly dressed in a camel's hair coat and grey fedora, handed Kuester what the latter thought was a $10 bill for the 40-cent ride.

The passenger left the cab without waiting for change. "I called him back, telling him he had change coming," said Kuester.

The man started back, stopped, waved his hand and told him to keep the change, Kuester said.

A few minutes later, Kuester, 45, discovered it was a $1,000 bill.

He drove to his home in the Bronx, discussed the situation with his wife, Elsie, thought it over all day, then telephoned his mother, Lillian. "We decided to go to the police," Kuester said.

Police relieved Kuester of the big bill. They'll check to determine whether it was part of the proceeds from a crime. If not, and if no one claims it, it will be returned to Kuester, who has three children.

Open House At Lodge

Red Cross Lodge will open its doors to the public from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The lodge was built adjoining Veterans' Hospital in 1917. It provides meals and recreational facilities for ambulant patients.

During 1962 the lodge served 2,300 light meals, 5,500 full meals as well as thousands of cups of coffee and tea.

ADENAUER ... 'stupidities'

Market Failure Of U.K. Blamed On 'Stupidities'

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Adenauer said Thursday that Britain failed to get in the Common Market because "stupidities were committed by others, not only Great Britain."

Adenauer apparently referred to France and his good friend President de Gaulle, but he refused to be drawn out by questioners at a foreign press association reception here.

WILD EXPRESSION "Stupidities is a wild expression but it would be stupid of me to name names," he said. Asked directly if he was referring to de Gaulle, the 87-year-old chancellor replied, "Don't be personal."

Adenauer appeared to be in a half-serious, half-joking mood at the reception. Asked what the worst mistake was, he said: "We are all sinners. Please understand that I have to pay certain regards." This was seen as another reference to de Gaulle's veto on British entry and Adenauer's failure to dissuade him from it.

PRACTICAL DIFFICULTIES Adenauer said "there are practical difficulties in the way of enlarging the Common Market. If Britain and Denmark join, five or six other nations will suddenly appear." "This will raise difficulties," he said. "What about the question of vote distribution? What about Commonwealth goods? What about our own agriculture? We must keep German agriculture alive."

Decision Soon

Exemption Asked On Playground

City council will make a decision next week on whether to grant a request for tax exemption on a small piece of property used as playground by St. Louis College.

Ald. Lily Wilson said granting of the request, recommended to finance committee, would mean departure from the policy set by council in 1959.

"Are we starting something here?" Mrs. Wilson said. "Can other private schools purchase additional property and make similar requests for exemption from taxes?"

SMALLER City manager J. C. Wyatt reported that St. Louis College has smaller playgrounds than the minimum set by the provincial department of education.

Finance committee decided not to include limitation of hours in the new draft bylaw covering operation of billiard parlors in the city.

Ald. Austin Curtis said bowling alleys and billiard parlors should have unrestricted opening in order to cater to shift workers. "The hours after midnight are the evening for many of these people," he said.

The committee ordered immediate steps to be taken to eliminate the present $100 monthly cost of maintaining the empty building which formerly housed the Mountain View home for men.

The cost is made up of the caretaker's salary, a $300-a-month electricity bill, and some $100 spent to date on oil for heating to prevent mildew on furniture and bedding.

Some of the contents, earmarked for use in the new juvenile detention home when it is completed, will be stored elsewhere and the remainder sold by auction. The caretaker will be released.

WORKSHOP

Finance committee recommended that four senior foremen employed by the city public works department be sent to a one-day workshop sponsored by the Workmen's Compensation Board in Vancouver March 15. It will cover safety practices in shoring up excavations.

Peking Raps Stand

U.S. Reds Caught in Crossfire

TOKYO (UPI) — American Red China criticized their stand. A New China News Agency broadcast said the American Communists were caught in the cross-fire of the Communist ideological war Thursday when they policy leading to thermonuclear war at that time.

"We were against putting any faith in (President) Kennedy's sham guarantee and we were against imposing 'international inspection' on Cuba," the broadcast of a Peking People's Daily editorial said.

This was a reference to the president's attitude that the U.S. would not invade Cuba provided inspection by the United Nations proved all Soviet offensive missiles were withdrawn.

The broadcast said the questions raised in the editorial included:

"How they (American Communists) confounded right and wrong on the question of the Caribbean crisis."

"How they glorify U.S. imperialism, singing the praises of Kennedy and eagerly affirming their loyalty to the U.S. ruling class."

The editorial was broadcast about an hour after Peking radio had given notice that an "important announcement" would be broadcast.

Crewman's Body Found

NANAIMO — The body of William Main, missing crewman from the government ship, G.B. Reed, was found early Thursday afternoon in the water beside the wharf where the boat had been tied since last Friday.

Main was last seen about 2 a.m. March 1 when he was taken to the wharf in a taxi, presumably to board the G.B. Reed which was due to sail on that day.

Cable Ship Will Complete Alberni-Hawaii Link

MONTREAL — The British cable ship Monarch is expected to begin laying the last leg of a new trans-Pacific cable from Port Alberni to Hawaii in April, the Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corporation said Thursday.

The Monarch sailed from London for Vancouver Wednesday.

She will lay the section to complete an undersea communications link connecting Australia, New Zealand, the Fiji Islands and Canada.

The entire trans-Pacific link, part of a projected communications network around the Commonwealth, is expected to be ready for service in December.

The Monarch took on 1,000 miles of submarine cable and 48 repeaters before leaving Britain.

Meanwhile the cable ship Mercury was expected to dock in Birkenhead, England, Friday after having 1,200 miles of the Pacific cable from the Fiji Islands to Hawaii.

The Mercury is scheduled to sail for the Pacific April 25 with more cable to assist in laying the British Columbia-Hawaii section.

Fire Wardens' Boss Really Burned Up

Ald. Austin Curtis, an inveterate pipe smoker, was bothered by a smell of burning in the city hall Thursday.

During a meeting he knocked out his pipe and laid it on the ashtray. The smell persisted. Suddenly he jumped up, smoke pouring from his jacket pocket.

After he put out the fire, a smouldering pocket lining, Ald. Arthur Dowell told him, amid laughter, "It's a good thing you're chairman of the fire wardens."

Red Blackmail Plot Foiled

LONDON (UPI)—A British embassy employee in Moscow frustrated a Soviet attempt to blackmail him into spying, the foreign office announced Thursday night.

It said Soviet intelligence agents approached Ivor Rowell, 46, the embassy's transport officer, 12 days ago, and tried to force him into spying

"by threatening to disclose an incident in his private life."

Rowell told the British

Earlier Thursday, the British embassy in Moscow had said Rowell was transferred suddenly back to Britain, but denied speculation that the case was connected with British businessman Greville Wynne, who has been detained there on spy charges since last November.

The embassy said Rowell was transferred two months before his tour of duty was up "because his wife was ill."

The foreign office statement disclosed the real reason behind his transfer, but it gave no other details of the Soviet blackmail attempt. Rowell joined the foreign service in 1960 and served in Africa before going to Moscow last May.

Smugglers Menace Diamond Industry

BAKWANGA, The Congo (AP)—The Congolese government is cracking down on diamond smugglers believed to have taken at least $12,000,000 worth of gems and industrial stones out of the country last year.

The Belgian-owned company whose Bakwanga mines produce 80 per cent of the world's industrial diamonds has warned the government it may have to close unless the smuggling is stopped.

Peterson's Surprise

'GO' FOR COLLEGES

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

B.C. will proceed immediately to implement the Macdonald report on higher education and is prepared to dip into consolidated revenue this year to do it.

The surprise announcement came from Education Minister Leslie Peterson in the legislature Thursday. His statement came as the House started debate on his estimates.

It clearly took the opposition by surprise.

First opposition speaker Mrs. Lois Haggren (NDP, Grand Forks-Greenwood) said it cut her speech in half.

UNIVERSITIES

Mr. Peterson announced impending legislation embracing the function of three de-accrediting universities: UBC, the University of Victoria, and the proposed Simon Fraser University to serve the lower Fraser Valley—plus amendments to the Public Schools Act to create three regional junior colleges.

In addition he said the government will proceed to set up two advisory committees recommended by Dr. Macdonald—one to operate in the academic field and the other to determine how government grants are to be divided among the three universities.

To Strachan

Smith Lends 'Ear'

VICTORIA M.L.A. Donald Smith, a Socialist, did his best Thursday to make sure Opposition Leader Robert Strachan won't miss any possible advantage in current legislative hearings.

After asking the legislature for special leave, he sat across the floor of the House a daffodil-decorated package.

It contained a sardonic rubber and composition ear-trumpet, obviously old-fashioned.

He said the proposition was being made on behalf of the "Committee for Better Political Hearing."

As committee investigations into accusations involving the highway department opened Wednesday, Mr. Smith failed to receive a second of his motion to have live television and radio coverage of the proceedings.

Mr. Strachan said later he hadn't heard the motion.

Upon receiving the gift, the New Democratic Party leader said that perhaps he had heard too much already. "This is as outdated as my friend's political ideas," he told the legislature waving the aged hearing instrument.

Syrian Army Revolts

LONDON (AP)—A Damascus radio broadcast said today the army has risen in revolution in Syria.

The broadcast said the country's borders have been closed, its airports shut down and a curfew clamped down over the entire nation.

Monitors said the broadcast criticized Syria's secession from the Egyptian-led United Arab Republic.

The announcer said the new regime "extends a hand to Cairo, Baghdad and San'a the Yemeni capital."

The broadcast added that the revolutionary command also would honor existing Syrian international agreements and support the United Nations charter.

That broadcast was monitored in London early this morning.

"The aim of the revolution is to bring the army back to the Arab line," an announcer said.

Postal, Too

Service Raise John D's Pledge

GUELPH (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday night that a civil service commission report on salary increases for the armed forces and postal workers will be implemented if his government is re-elected April 8.

The prime minister said the commission's report is due at the end of this month, but he said "we can't bring in the increases now" because spending authority would be needed from Parliament.

He added: "If it were not for our defeat, it (the report) would already have been received and implemented."

Five-Year Plan To Aid Economy

GUELPH (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker promised Thursday night new incentives for sales, added incentives for production and incentives for expanded trade as part of a new "five-year plan" to boost the economy and provide 1,000,000 new jobs.

"The economy is on the up-rise, the upsurge is continuing," he told a crowd of 1,200 in this city of 10,000.

EXPORT SURPLUS

Mr. Diefenbaker said there has been a Canadian export surplus in 1962 "and we'll increase that amount this year."

If re-elected, he said, his government would introduce in Parliament "further legislation of benefit to small business across Canada."

He also pledged the creation of an advisory council "for small business."

TO BE IMPROVED

Referring to government guaranteed loans for small businesses, he said the legislation will be improved where it is demonstrated to be insufficient on the basis of experience."

The next session of Parliament would be convened as soon as possible after the election.

JOIN CRUSADE

He appealed to his audience to "join in a crusade for a greater Canada no matter what your politics." He said a vote for either the New Democrats or the Social Credit party would be a vote for the Liberals.

Hammering at his made-in-Canada policy, he noted that it had already been started by his government, although this

BRANDON, Lester Peterson may be leader of the Liberal party but to curlers he rates as no more than just another spectator.

Reaction to a story in a Winnipeg newspaper that Mr. Peterson would make a quick appearance at the Wheat City Arena Thursday afternoon and throw the last rock before the start of the eighth draw in the Canadian men's curling championship was quick and to the point.

"Who asked him?" said one blunt official. Fred Piche, chairman of the Brandon Brier committee, summed it up:

"We are running a sporting event, not a political rally."

Mr. Peterson, an avid sports fan, showed up for the afternoon draw and spent about 45 minutes seated in a guest box high over an entrance on one side of the ice. He told newsmen he knew nothing about the schlemozzle.

"Someone may have tried to arrange something, but I don't know anything about it," he said. "I just came here to watch the curling."

Liberal aides travelling with the Peterson tour obviously were embarrassed by the incident. The only explanation they had was that "someone in Ottawa made a mistake."

More Ottawa Grants Liberal School Plan

BRANDON (CP)—Liberal from going to university by Jack

Leader Peterson visited Brandon College Thursday and restated his party's pledge to boost federal aid to higher education without invading provincial jurisdiction over education.

Mr. Peterson, flying here from Saskatoon in the forenoon, spoke to about 300 Liberal party supporters and a couple of hundred college students in the basement of the school's new cafeteria building.

FOR EVERYONE

It should be the objective of a federal government, he said, to make it possible through the provinces to give a university education to every boy and girl with the capacity to absorb one. No one should be prevented

MUST DO MORE

"What a waste of our most important resource—our human resource," he said. "We have to do more than we are doing in Ottawa, to make it possible for the provinces to see that every boy and girl gets a university education, and is not precluded from doing so by lack of financial resources."

Mr. Peterson said the Liberal program calls for 10,000 national scholarships a year, valued at $1,000 each, plus bursaries and loans to students repayable after graduation.

Mom's Not Ready To Back Tommy

SASKATOON (CP)—Mrs. Ann Douglas, president of the Saskatoon Old Age Pensioners' Association, apparently isn't prepared to readily accept the program of the New Democratic Party which her son, T. C. Douglas leads.

At least not until she's heard what the other parties have to offer.

Wednesday night she suggested, at a meeting of the association, that local representatives of all four political parties be invited to speak to the pensioners.

"These politicians will promise you a lot of things," she said, "but remember to vote for the one who promises you the most."

The suggestion was referred to the executive for consideration.

very much time to train for a 50-mile walkathon," Mr. McKinnon said.

On the other hand, walking doesn't strain the heart or the lungs quite as much as running, he said. The main point is care of the feet "which take all the beating."

"In walking it is pretty hard to hurt the heart," he added.

Concert Set Saturday For Choir

PORT ALBERNI Soli Deo Gloria Choir is sponsoring a concert to be held in ADSS auditorium Saturday. Other groups will join in a program of sacred and secular music.

Originated by a group of immigrants from Holland, the Soli Deo Gloria Choir asked for and received help from other residents of the area and now has a membership of 30 with Paul Auterhof as director. The old-age pension scheme envisaged by the Liberals would "take in" those to become self-sustaining.

Mr. Greer said Liberal leader Pearson was the only man who could restore Canada to her old position of respect in the world and that no one could possibly call a Nobel Peace Prize winner a warmonger.

1,000,000 Jobs Goal

NANAIMO The Liberal party hopes to create 1,000,000 jobs in the next four years if elected April 8, Liberal candidate Douglas Greer for Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands told a Hub City Kiwanis Club meeting Wednesday.

Other targets for the Liberals named by Mr. Greer were:

- Relocate businesses in unemployment pockets by making tax relief so attractive they will want to make the move.
- Establish a national development corporation to buy back for Canada the major interests in the industries now held by absentee owners.

TORY BEHAVIOR

He outlined briefly the "illogical and shameful behavior" of the Progressive Conservatives by choosing to support NATO and NORAD, and accepting nuclear weapons and now refusing to accept the ammunition for the weapons on hand.

In the educational field, the Liberals are prepared to pay family allowances as long as a child is in school, not limit it to 16 years, he said. They will establish 1,000 scholarships worth $10,000 for education, an independent student loan fund, more financial aid to universities, and will definitely go along with the idea of regional colleges and co-ordination of vocational training.

HEALTH PLAN

The health insurance plan outlined by Mr. Greer drew many comments. He said the plan was approved by the Canadian Medical Association, and that it was a federal, deductible plan with the federal government paying 51 per cent of the cost. It would have to be implemented by each province.

The old-age pension scheme envisaged by the Liberals would "take in" those to become self-sustaining.

Mr. Greer said Liberal leader Pearson was the only man who could restore Canada to her old position of respect in the world and that no one could possibly call a Nobel Peace Prize winner a warmonger.

ALBERNI Council recently referred to the financial committee the matter of establishing a uniform policy on sick leave for salaried employees, and the committee was asked to investigate and report.

Mayor Fred Bishop asked council members to consider appointment of directors for the recreation commission now in the process of being formed. He stressed the need for immediate action in view of the impending softball season.

Ald. George Dunbar, reported on the organization meeting and said it had been encouraging to see interest in the proposed commission. City clerk James Sawyer and solicitor R. J. Ohs are drawing up a bylaw to establish the commission.

A conference with the board of trade executive was suggested prior to asking a decision on whether the council would approve the proposed assessment for the Victoria and Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau.

NANAIMO Edward Miller, William McQueen and David Simpson, all of Victoria, were found guilty of breaking, entering and theft in the Spring Assizes Thursday.

DUNCAN Beryl Mackie and Christen Christensen, both of Duncan, pleaded guilty to driving without driver's licence and were fined $10 each in police court Thursday.

The junior colleges would be in Vancouver, the Okanagan and the Kootenays, as the report had advised.

IN NEW ACT

Mr. Peterson said the absence of any provision for implementing the Macdonald recommendations in the 1964 estimates would not in any way delay its implementation. Outside the House he told reporters that legislative authorities for delving into consolidated revenue to get the program started would be included in a new Universities Act to be presented during the present session.

His announcement came as a surprise because in his speech during the budget debate earlier in the session he left the impression Dr. Macdonald's recommendations were just too costly for the province to handle alone.

Yesterday he said his earlier remarks had been "misconstrued."

But he repeated that the long-term costs of the Macdonald report could still only be met if B.C. enjoys a booming economy and gets greater federal aid.

Mr. Pearson, an avid sports fan, showed up for the afternoon draw and spent about 15 minutes seated in a guest box high over an entrance on one side of the ice.

He told newsmen he knew nothing about the schlemmole.

"Someone may have tried to arrange something, but I don't know anything about it," he said. "I just came here to watch the curling."

Liberal aides travelling with the Pearson tour obviously were embarrassed by the incident. The only explanation they had was that "someone in Ottawa made a mistake."
